VOL XVI. NO. 167. TOLEDO, OHIO, MONDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 9, 1891. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS

WEATHER.

Forecast for western New York—Continued warm, southerly winds to-day; increasing cloudiness and light rain; colder, with cloudiness and rain and probably snow Tuesday.

For Indiana, lower Michigan and Illinois—Decidedly colder; northwesterly winds and rain, probably turning into snow; decidedly colder Tuesday, with light rain or snow.

For Ohio—Southerly winds, shifting to decidedly colder northwesterly Tuesday; threatening weather and rain, probably turning into snow Tuesday.

For upper Michigan and Wisconsin—Colder, northwesterly winds and generally fair weather.

Observer Hagen, United States weather bureau, says: The local forecast for this vicinity to-day is cloudy, clearing this evening, cooler, southwest to west winds. For Tuesday fair, cooler, with a cool wave at night.

"The storm reported Saturday is about 100 miles west of us this morning, moving southeastward; heavy rains fell this morning in its path through Kansas and Missouri. Fair and cool weather is anticipated until about Thursday, when another storm, now in Canada, will about reach us; this however, may be delayed somewhat by the intervention of a high wind, which is pushing its way up from Kansas. Should this occur we will have snow or rain Wednesday.

"The highest temperature on the government weather map this morning was 64 degrees on the gulf. The lowest 10 degrees in Canada. The highest temperature at Toledo yesterday was 61 degrees, the lowest this morning was 56 degrees. The rainfall yesterday was only .01 inch."

PANIC IN BERLIN.

Unstable Finances Shaking the Empire.

Suicides of Bankers and Broken Banks

Have Caused Feelings of Universal Unrest.

Prices Slump and General Alarm Prevails.

People on Foot and in Carriages Pressing Around the Banks to Get Their Money Out and Lock It Up in the Vaults.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—There is no disguising the fact that a financial panic of considerable gravity prevails here as a result of the recent startling financial disclosures, failures, and the suicides attending them.

Some people are of the opinion that the worst of the financial storm is over and that when matters quiet down there will be a beneficial reaction.

In any case, the market is disorganized to-day and securities generally have taken a "slump," to use the "street" term.

This influence of this decline of prices is already felt in London and Paris, and it would not be going too far to say that the Berlin troubles have disorganized every market in Europe.

Additional revelations in regard to the collapses of Hirschfeld and Wolff, the fall of Herr Lipziger and the suicides of the Sommerfelds are made almost hourly.

Siegmund Sommerfeld died to-day from the wounds he inflicted upon himself on Saturday last, at the same time that his son Felix took his own life. The Sommerfelds, as already stated, in addition to shooting themselves, had opened veins in their arms and when found were literally bathed in blood.

Siegmund lived until this morning with a bullet in his brain, but Felix, who, by the way, was a well known epicure and the author of a number of attractive articles on cookery, which appeared in the Boersen Courier, died soon after he and his father were found.

Among the additional names of heavy losers by the financial crookedness of the Sommerfelds are those of the dowager Princess Mathilde, of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, Prince Blucher-DeWahlstadt, Prince Putbus and Counts Szafsky, Hamfresch, Nesselrode, Nordeck, and many other members of aristocratic families.

Among the noble depositors who were lucky enough not to get "bitten" was Count Gribenow, who withdrew the sum of $900,000 from the Sommerfelds bank early on Saturday morning last.

Berlin, from one end to the other, and Germany from frontier to frontier, is talking of nothing else but the financial earthquakes which have shaken the entire fabric of the private banking system of the empire.

No such day as this has ever been known in the history of German finances, and it is feared that the end of it all is far from being in sight.

A number of banks here this morning are besieged by clients anxious to withdraw their accounts, and some of these institutions may find it difficult to stand the run.

Their clients, on foot and in carriages, are pressing for the banks from all sides, evidently being under the impression that in these times of terrible financial crashes it is safest to lock up their money at home.

PIONEER NOTES.

Pioneer, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Diphtheria is reported by Dr. Beard in one family.

The new ballot system gave general satisfaction, and a more orderly election was never held in this place. The ladies of the M. E. church served meals during the day.

James Gay, clerk in Hodson's drug store, and Ruth Knapp were united in marriage on Thursday evening by Rev. J. R. Colgan.

Mrs. Fred C. Arthur, of Detroit, Mich., will give an elocutionary entertainment in the M. E. church on Tuesday evening next, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

TO RIP UP COLUMBUS.

Republican Legislators Already at Work.

The Governor to Make Fat Places for All the Men Who Helped Carry the Tin Plate Load to the Executive Mansion.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Scarcely had the returns on Tuesday night shown that McKinley was elected, and with him a republican legislature, than the schemers after spoils, and republican corruptionists in general, were planning how they might reach the public crib quickest. The first public attack will be on the city of Columbus in the form of a "ripper" bill.

Two republican lawyers in the capital are now at work on a bill to reorganize Columbus with a board of public control of five, to be appointed by the governor, which will have charge of the police, fire department, etc.

This board will bounce all democrats and work in unison with the city council.

It is the general impression that the federal plan won't get a show under the coming republican legislature.

C. F. ATWOOD DEAD.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Charles F. Atwood, a well known theatrical manager, was found demented in the streets of Hyde Park Friday night. He was taken to a hospital where he died yesterday. The Elks have taken charge of the body. Atwood was the manager of the Berger family at one time and later was connected with companies of Shook, Palmer and Emma Abbott.

GILMOUR'S SUCCESSOR.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—Cardinal Gibbons was asked if he had received a papal decree appointing Father Charles McCready, now in charge of the Holy Cross parish, New York, to succeed the late Bishop Gilmour. The cardinal said he was not aware that Father McCready's name had been sent to Rome.

OPPOSED TO CATHOLICS.

Knights of Malta Want Wayward Girls Raised Protestants.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 9.—The supreme commandery of the Knights of Malta met in this city and adopted the report of Supreme Commander E. N. Wilt. The most important thing in the report was the following:

Well knowing how the enemies of our religion get possession of homeless children and wayward young girls, who have been led from the path of virtue into that of vice, and who, as a penalty for that departure, are handed over by judicial courts to homes of the Good Shepherd and other institutions controlled by the clergy and citizens of a foreign hierarchy, we trust a home for the protection and care of these defenceless and unfortunate ones will soon be established by the order of the Knights of Malta, and commend the plans suggested by our supreme commander for the establishment of such a home to be controlled by Protestant influences.

BUILDING CAVE-IN.

A Serious Accident in Akron Saturday Afternoon.

Akron, O., Nov. 7.—About 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the two-story stone front building occupied by Herrick & Son, dealers in crockery, and the three-story brick building occupied as a confectionery and bakery by S. P. Lafferty, collapsed and are now a mass of ruins.

About 20 persons were in the dining-room in the rear portion of the bakery. They heard the cracking and rushed out the back doors, all being saved.

The loss on Herrick building about $18,000 and on the latter $15,000. Herrick & Son's loss is $20,000. Lafferty's is about $4,000. The rear walls of both blocks stood intact, and the wreckage there did not fall to the first floor as in the front, thus giving the occupants a chance to escape.

CHARGED TO POLITICS.

Jay Gould Discharged Men Who Voted for Flower.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Twenty-five men were working on Jay Gould's place at Irvington prior to the election. The morning after the election 17 of the men were discharged.

One of the discharged men, Thomas Hogan, a democrat, told the story of the discharge to friends in Tarrytown. He said: "The 17 men who were discharged were all democrats. The eight who were retained were republicans. We democrats think Jay Gould must be a republican, and that he was so sore over the defeat of Fassett that he decided that all of us who voted for Flower must go. So we were discharged."

THE BALTIMORE IS O. K.

No Attempt Has Been Made to Wreck Her.

Both Chili and Brazil Report a Peaceful Situation with No Probability of Trouble.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatches this morning say that Capt. Schley and his officers are indignant at the yarn of the sinking of their vessel as it gives their families at home a great deal of unnecessary anxiety. Everything is quiet in Valparaiso and the Baltimore is as safe as if she were in home waters.

Capt. Schley will permit the victims of the recent assault to appear before the investigating judge, but has stipulated that officers of the vessel must also be present when the men are examined. He has also agreed to furnish the court a copy of the information about the assault as sent to the United States.

Advices received at Valparaiso from Rio de Janeiro state that the new dictatorial government has prohibited the holding of public meetings until all signs of uneasiness pass entirely away. The newspapers are commanded not to make any remarks about Fonseca's dissolution of congress or dictatorial proclamation.

GAUMER ELECTED.

Reported to Have Won by One Majority in the Fifteenth.

Newark, O., Nov. 9.—The contest between D. H. Gaumer, democrat, and George, independent republican, for senator in this (the Fifteenth) senatorial district, is very close. The board of elections has been busily engaged ever since Wednesday in making the official canvass of the votes.

The vote as it now stands in Licking county, although not certified to as yet, gives Gaumer 712 majority. This gives Gaumer the election in the district by one vote.

WANTS THE CONVENTION.

New York Makes a Bid to Both Parties.

Harrison, in the Face of the Present State of Affairs, Will Enter a Strong Protest.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Recorder this morning devotes a full page in giving reasons and interviews with prominent men of both parties why the two national conventions should be held in this city.

It says the Madison Square garden has a seating capacity greater than that of any public hall or auditorium in the United States, seating 12,000 persons, that New York hotels will accommodate 70,000 guests, and no increase in rates would be made during convention week.

No national convention has been held in New York city since 1868 and the Recorder thinks it but fit, in view of the advantages this city now offers, that the conventions should now be held here.

GOSSIP FROM BRYAN.

Home Talent on the Stage—Local and Personal Mention.

Bryan, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—F. J. McDannel was over from Owosso, Mich., and spent Sunday.

Agnew Richardson, of Cleveland, dropped in on his friends here the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Chilson, of Butler, Ind., spent Sunday in Bryan.

The Drummer Boy will be given at the opera house Nov. 11, 12 and 13, by home talent. Proceeds for charitable purposes.

Electrical fixtures are being placed in the new court house for lighting purposes.

TOOK IN THE WHOLE GANG.

A Bold Band of Swindlers Placed in Jail.

Joseph Mayer Has Been the Victim of a Conspiracy to Rob and Has Lost $75,000.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 9.—Joseph Mayer, proprietor of the arsenal pottery, for robbing which several arrests were made on Saturday in Philadelphia, estimates his loss at more than $75,000.

He says that a conspiracy between his invoice clerk, W. W. Sweet, and crockery dealers in Philadelphia and Trenton has been in existence for about six years and that they dvided the profits on wares which he was accustomed to send them.

Sweet would charge them on Mayer's books with only a small fraction of the value of the goods shipped.

Sweet and his wife are held in Trenton, and besides the crockery dealers arrested on Saturday others will be arrested to-day.

SHOT BY A CHINESE.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Special Police Officer John Gillen was shot and killed by a Chinaman named Chew Sin Jan, who also shot and probably fatally wounded Joseph Cowell, a milkman, besides wounding G. Barberis, a restaurant keeper.

MAVERICK BANK SCANDAL

The Dead Examiner MustTake All the Blame.

Did He or Did He Not Report Its True Condition.

A Loophole Through Which the Administration Will Make a Desperate Attempt to Escape Bitter Censure.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Nothing could have been more tragic or sensational than the sudden death of Bank Examiner Magruder a week ago yesterday, upon the commencement of the suspension of the Maverick National bank.

The intensity of his emotion upon that occasion was naturally a matter of much comment, in which his numerous friends rallied to his assistance with the statement that such a fate he had long expected to be overshadowing the bank, which suspicions he had without effect repeatedly communicated to his superior, Comptroller of the Currency Lacy, at Washington.

The negligence to act on his report worried him intensely as being to him in the light of a public lack of confidence, hence his agitation when the lightning struck.

This story was seized upon by the opposition press here as a weapon against the national administration, but an investigation of the true relationship between the dead examiner and the Maverick bank, occasioned by the emphatic denial by the comptroller that Examiner Magruder had ever warned him of the bank's shaky condition before his brief announcement of the collapse just prior to his death, showed a lamentable lack of moral character and official integrity on the part of the very man the government and people reposed the most confidence in, Mr. Magruder himself.

It was not the realization of his unappreciated prophecies that hastened his end—it was the staggering blow given by the unexpected collapse of an institution he had upheld instead of condemning, he had shielded instead of exposed, and the position the suspension put him in easily accounts for the anxiety that brought a fatal crisis in his malady.

Investigation exposes a most lamentable negligence on Magruder's part. He was a warm personal friend of President Potter, of the Maverick bank, and was his constant companion and guest. The summer he passed at Potter's palatial seaside home. And in winter was given a social entree everywhere under Potter's personal escort.

For over four years he knew the bank's position, but dreaded the loss of his society privileges by a rupture of his friendship with Potter, which any adverse report on the condition of the bank was sure to precipitate.

Two years ago, for example, according to the testimony of a prominent member of the clearing house committee, the Maverick bank was impoverished, which fact the committee reported to Mr. Magruder, demanding an examination; but this he declined to make until he had communicated with Mr. Potter on his return from Saratoga.

He waited a week, then took dinner with Potter, and reported, without examination, that the bank was solid, when it was only by the most desperate financiering that the disaster was tided over.

Mrs. Magruder, the widow, has since these developments bravely taken up the cudgel in her husband's defense, and claims to be possessed of documents to prove that he did his duty in the matter of reporting the bank's condition, but as present investigations shows such manipulations on the part of Potter as to necessitate his arrest, the action of the examiner in sharing his hospitality instead of exposing a fraud and protecting the bank's depositors is a mystery.

THE DAY NURSERY.

Officers Elected and the Work Begun in Earnest.

The Day Nursery Circle of King's Daughters held a meeting in the Central Congregational church Saturday afternoon, and elected the following officers for one year: President, Mrs. H. M. Bacon; vice-president, Mrs. M. A. Scott; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Woolson; secretary, Mrs. Sophia Waldron. The president, Mrs. Bacon, then selected chairmen for the different committees as follows: Finance, Mrs. Mary Hubbel; house, matron and supplies, Mrs. M. A. Scott; by-laws, Mrs. Daniels; investigating, Mrs. Hamilton. The chairmen of the committees will select their own aids. The visiting committee will consist of those ladies who have not been appointed to act on other committees. Donations of any kind will be thankfully received from the generous public, as quite a number of beds and bedding, chairs, and in fact supplies of every kind will be required to start this much-needed enterprise. Donations can be sent to the home, at the corner of Oak and Huron streets. The meeting was then adjourned until next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the Central Congregational church.

KILLED IN A MINE.

A Safety Lamp Ignited the Deadly Gas.

Six Men Killed in Pennsylvania While Toiling for a Living in the Bowels of the Earth.

Nanticoke, Pa., Nov. 9.—The usual quiet Sunday of this mining village was disturbed about 4:30 o'clock p. m. by the announcement that a terrible explosion of gas had occurred in No. 1 shaft of the Susquehanna Coal company, by which a number of men had been killed and others terribly injured.

It was soon learned, however, that owing to the fact that it was Sunday there were but 14 men at work in the mine. Of this number six were instantly killed, and several others so badly burned and injured that they cannot survive, many fearing that they were in such condition that they could not be removed from the mine.

The killed are:

William J. Williams, miner, aged 55 years, wife and four children.

Henry R. Jones, town clerk of Nanticoke, fire boss, aged 40 years, wife and two children.

William Jonathan, aged 35 years, wife and four children.

John Arnott, aged 40 years, wife and four children.

Caleb Jething, aged 30 years, wife and four children.

Thomas Lloyd, driver boy, aged 18 years.

The critically injured are: David Powell, aged 32 years; David A. Smith, aged 27 years, single; Thomas Thomas, aged 19 years, a stepson of Foreman D. W. Evans; Henry Williams, son of William J. Williams, who was killed instantly, wife and six children; Howell Jofhenski, a Polander, and two Polanders whose names could not be ascertained.

The accident was caused by the explosion of a safety lamp, the flames of which ignited the gas.

PRESIDENT JORGE MONTT.

The New Ruler of Chili for Five Years.

Valparaiso, Nov. 9.—As was announced a few days ago in these dispatches, the liberal party in Chili won a sweeping victory in the recent elections, and this fact makes the election of a liberal president a foregone conclusion. The constitution of Chili provides that the electors chosen by the people shall meet and elect a president of the republic. The liberal electors met in caucus and nominated for president of Chili for the ensuing five years Admiral Jorge Montt.

The opposition has also indorsed Montt, and his election will be unanimous.

New York, Nov. 9.—Senor Claudio Vicuna, who before the close of the late war in Chili was elected as the successor of President Balmaceda, but who is now, owing to the victory of the congressional party a refugee from the country, left for Europe Saturday.

Mr. Vicuna does not speak English, but through an interpreter he said to a reporter that his visit had been for pleasure only. Mr. Vicuna said the duration of his stay in Europe would depend upon the condition of affairs in his own country.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

Secretary Rusk Presents His Annual Report.

The Barriers Against Trade Have Cost One Industry $260,000,000 in the Past Ten Years.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Secretary Rusk in his third annual report as secretary of agriculture says that notwithstanding the abundant yield of crops this year, values are well sustained and estimates that the increase in the value of agricultural products over last year will be not less than $700,000,000.

He states that during the first three months of the present fiscal year our exports in cereals alone have aggregated $76,000,000, adding that the indications are now that the sales abroad of the surplus from our farms will, during the present year, largely exceed those of any previous year.

He notes the increase by some 28,000,000 in the imports of agricultural products during the first 10 months under the present law, by comparison with the same period during the last year of the old law, but emphasizes the fact that the increase is confined largely to articles not competing with home products, such as sugar, tea, coffee, etc.

At the same time he states that the change in the rates has checked the importation of products which may be produced at home. He notes a decrease in tobacco from $17,000,000 to $6,000,000; a falling off in foreign barley of nearly three and a half millions; in eggs one and a quarter millions; in horses a falling off of nearly a million and a half and a gradual decline in the imports of all live stock.

Referring to the import of hides, admitted free of duty, he states that this causes a great depreciation in prices realized for hides of home production and earnestly recommends that the duty provided for in section 3 of the tariff act approved October 1, 1890, be imposed in all cases where the countries from which such hides are shipped have not granted equal concessions in regard to the admission of the agricultural products of the United States.

He earnestly recommends that congress be asked to make an appropriation sufficiently large to extend the inspection to all applicants.

He stimates that the losses to our pork raisers during the past 10 years owing to the prohibition by foreign countries aggregate over $260,000,000.

He congratulates the country upon the success of the experiments in the extraction of sugar from sorghum. "There seems to be no reason," he says, "why we should not look forward with confidence to the day when the $100,000,000 paid by Americans to foreign producers for sugar should be turned into the pockets of our own people." In all our efforts towards diversifying our crops, climatic conditions must play an important part in this connection.

THE AUSTRIAN BUDGET.

An Enormous Increase Asked for War Purposes.

The Gravity of the European Situation Can be Easily Estimated by the Action of the Government.

Vienna, Nov. 9.—The Austrian budget for the year 1892 was made public today. The gravity of the situation of affairs in Europe can be judged from the fact that the estimated amount of money asked for the expenses of the war department is 121,700,000 florins, or an increase of 4,500,000 florins over the estimates of 1891.

With this additional money Austria proposes to raise 42 reserve batteries of artillery to effective, or war strength, and she also proposes to spend a million florins upon strengthening the Austrian fortresses upon the Galician frontier and standing in the way of a Russian army which might be advancing from Russian Poland.

Finally 225 lieutenants are to be added to the infantry regiments.

For marine or admiralty expenses the sum of 11,600,000 florins is estimated to be the amount of money required.

A SUBURB OF COLUMBUS.

Little Sally Made at the Expense of Toledo.

A good joke was perpetrated on Toledo rather unwittingly yesterday. Rev. John Tevis, of Indianapolis, filled the pulpit at St. John's M. E. church in the morning, and in his introductory remarks, said:

"I was in attendance at the missionary meeting this week, and on Friday, when the local pastors were making up the list of appointments for Columbus and its suburbs. I requested that I should be assigned to Toledo. My request was granted, and here I am."

A broad smile was on the faces of many in the congregation on learning that the Indianapolis divine considered himself in one of the suburbs of Columbus. This sally is printed for the benefit of Columbus newspapers, who take great delight when Toledo gets a shot. The preacher is forgiven for his ignorance on the points involved, since he preached a fine sermon.

BLAINE AND M'KINLEY.

Kansas Republicans Want That Ticket.

A Thorough Organization to be Formed to Down Benjamin from Indiana.

Topeka, Ks., Nov. 9.—A meeting of leading republicans, all active in the state republican league, was held here last night and a Blaine-McKinley league was formed. The purpose is to organize similar leagues in all the counties, the theory being that the next campaign will be on the tariff and reciprocity issues.

CZAR'S SILVER WEDDING.

It Is Being Celebrated in Livadia To-Day.

It Really Amounts to a Family Gathering.

Suffering and Famine in Russia, Together with the Illness of Prince George, Have Prevented the Usual Royal Display.

Vienna, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Livadia says that the silver wedding of the czar is being celebrated without much display. The gathering is but little more than a family party.

There are several reasons for this. The Russian famine is understood to be the chief, both the czar and czarina being deeply touched by the sufferings of their subjects.

Another reason is the hopeless condition of the czar's son, the grand duke George, of whose recovery there is absolutely no expectation. The Czar and czarina are deeply plunged in grief over this prospective bereavement, and it is to be near their son as long as possible that they chose Livadia as the place to celebrate their silver wedding.

George has been ill now for nearly a year. He started on the tour of the east with his brother, the czarowitch, and had to return from India owing to failing health.

Since then every care possible has been bestowed upon him, but he has continued to decline.

Another reason is the recent death of the grand duchess, Alexandria. The archbishop of Odessa officiates to-day at the religious part of the celebration which, according to the peculiar forms of the Russian church, is virtually a repetition of the marriage ceremony.

The czar is in receipt of many presents, including the splendid silver pilgrim bottles from the Prince and Princess of Wales, the royal family of Denmark and the Duke of Cumberland.

A BOLD STROKE.

Forgers Trying to Get One Thousand Dollars on Winnie Davis.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 9.—Several days ago a leading merchant of this city received a letter from Jersey City, N. J., signed Winnie Davis, and asking the immediate loan of a thousand dollars until she could repay it from the receipts of her mother's book. He handed the letter to a man familiar with Miss Davis' handwriting, and he at once pronounced it a forgery. The letter was, however, enclosed to Miss Davis at Richmond, and a telegraphic answer received on its receipt pronounces it a forgery.

POISONED BY HIS WIFE.

Serious Charges Made in a Kentucky Town.

A Faithless Woman and a Scheming Doctor Suspected of a Crime Against Human Life.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—The startling news has just reached here that Zach Ward, a prosperous and highly respected farmer living near Chaplin, a small town in Nelson county, about twenty miles from Bardstown, was poisoned by his wife.

Ward is not dead, but is so low that he is expected to die at any time. The poison used was strychnine, and was put into a cup of coffee by his wife.

It is reported that Ward had suspected the existence of improper relations between his wife and Dr. Fred Pope, the most prominent physician in that section, and had fallen out with his wife on account of her behavior toward Dr. Pope.

The wife passed through Chaplin the day Ward was taken sick and has not been seen since. It is also reported that Dr. Pope is missing. He is charged with furnishing the wife with the poison.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR.

Pittsburg, Nov. 9.—A Corry, Pa., special says: The attorneys for the Corry National bank are confident that dollar for dollar of the indebtedness can be paid within a year, as it is thought there will be no difficulty in realizing on the large line of securities in that time. Notwithtanding this the depositors are nervous, and will take some action if a report is not forthcoming from Bank Examiner Miller.

100 MILES IN TEN HOURS.

Wauseon, Nov. 9.—(Special)—D. W. Downer, of Morenci, Mich., has wagered $500 with Detroit parties that he can drive his little mare, a grand daughter of Old No. 10, 100 miles in 10 hours. The race takes place to-morrow from 7 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m. A distance of five miles has been surveyed from two miles east of Morenci easterly into Ohio and he drives over this space. A number of sporting men from different parts of our state will be present.

PILED UP IN A HEAP.

Train Wreckers at Work in the South.

Fortunate Escape From Death by the the Passengers of a Western & Atlantic Express.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 9.—The outgoing Western & Atlantic passenger train was thrown off the track by train wreckers last night. The scene of the accident was in a sharp curve eight miles from the city.

The train was making a speed of 25 miles an hour. Engineer Barrett detected something wrong, but before he got the engine reversed it careened around, standing clear across the track, the tender ran upon and against the engine while the mail car plowed into the embankment half way over the engine before it stopped.

But one man, a tramp stealing a ride, was killed. An investigation shows that at the spot where the engine flew the track the rail had been taken up, every spike drawn and all piled together about twenty feet from the track.

One end of the rail on the other side had been unloosed so as to be laid obliquely across the track.

FATAL CHICKEN DISEASE.

Wapakoneta, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—The past week eggs have advanced four cents per dozen, all on account of a very peculiar disease which is raging among the chickens. First the chicken gets blind, then the head swells to enormous size, and in a few hours they are dead. Chicken experts say that they are puzzled.

One farmer has lost about two-thirds of his year's crop. They are dying by the hundreds, and no remedy for them.

VANDALS IN ROME

Desecrate the Tomb of Countess Mirafiori,

The Morganatic Wife of the Late Victor Emmanuel.

Another Day of Excitement in the Italian Capital.

Animosity Between the Government and the Vatican.

An Incident Which Will Outshadow That of the Pantheon in Its Effects, and May Lead to Driving the Pope Out of the Eternal City.

Rome, Nov. 9.—This city was startled yesterday by the announcement that some scoundrel or scoundrels had desecrated the tomb of the Countess Mirafiori, the morganatic wife of the late King Victor Emmanuel.

Following close upon the Pantheon incident which occurred on October 2 last, the present outrage has created another burst of popular indignation and has again dangerously strained the relations existing between the government and the vatican.

In the case of the Pantheon incident, it will be remembered, a party of French pilgrims visiting the tomb of King Emmanuel, in that church, behaved in such a disgraceful manner that their conduct was resented by the populace to the extent of creating a series of riotous demonstrations during which large bands of men paraded the streets singing patriotic songs, cheering the Italian flag, damanding that the pontifical arms be removed from the French Catholic cemetery and threatening to drive all the pilgrims out of Rome.

One of the French visitors at the Pantheon went so far as to spit in the visitors' book and to write in it "A bas Victor Emmanuel," "Vive le pope."

But the outrage made public yesterday eclipsed the Pantheon incident in devilish malignancy.

The rascals implicated in outraging the tomb of the countess Mirafiori forced it open and set fire to the coffin, evidently with the object of consuming the remains of the lady who, in spite of the position as a "wife of the left hand," was endeared to many thousands of Romans, out of sympathy, perhaps, for the king known as "Il Re Galantuomo."

The ghouls, however, were unable to carry out their designs, owing to the solidity of the zinc shell which formed the inner portion of the casket. They succeeded, it is true, in slightly burning the face and feet of the countess, and entirely destroying the outer casket.

The police have not as yet made any arrests in the case, but they are following up several clues which may lead to the identification and punishment of the miscreants engaged in this work. A dark lantern, a chisel, a wooden mallet, a piece of candle and a cloth cap, such as those belonging to the working classes, are in possession of the police and are being used to hunt down the perpetrators of this latest outrage.

Opinions are divided as to the cause of this sacrilege. The supporters of the government, who are in the very large majority, claim that it is the work either of paid agents of the vatican, or of fanatics who are incensed at the fact that there is a possibility of the pope being compelled to leave Rome.

On the other hand the friends of the vatican say they can see in this incident further evidence of the desire of the Italian government, through secret agents, to increase the bitter, dangerous feeling already expressed against the vatican.

In any case, let it be the work of agents of the Italian government, of agents of the vatican (which is considered most unlikely by unprejudiced people), or of religious fanatics, this second tomb outrage cannot fail to increase the animosity between the people who support the government and the clerical party.

It will be a good thing for one or the other of the opposing interests if the scoundrels who outraged the countess' tomb are arrested and the blame fixed where it properly belongs.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Eugenie Blair, Downing's Charming Leading Lady.

She Has a Word to Say That Will Be of Interest—"After Dark" at the People's—Good Week Promised.

To-night Toledo people will be favored with an exceptional production of Julius Caesar, with Robert Downing in the role of Marc Antony. Mr. Downing needs no introduction, and as usual, he is supported by a strong company in all parts. This company includes Fred C. Mosely, who played with Barrett and Mr. Downing's leading lady is Miss Eugenie Blair, who has also been before a Toledo audience.

Miss Blair is a handsome young woman, almost perfect of face and figure, and when met by a Bee at the Body house, where she is stopping, she presented a charming picture.

Miss Blair had many other inducements to go on the stage in addition to the golden promises of success held out by her own natural gifts of body and mind. Miss Ella Wren was a name to conjure with even in the troublous times of the war, and when she was wooed and won by Capt. Francis P. Blair, a confederate soldier of South Carolina, there were ominous fears that the stage might lose a bright particular star. It was as one of the company of which Wilkes Booth was a memebr that Miss Wren won distinction and she has been a life-long friend of his great brother, Edwin.

One day while on a tour through the south Miss Wren dawned upon the vision of the young rebel officer and night after night saw him as faithfully at his post in an advantageous position to view the unconscious object of his admiration as ever he had been on duty in war time. Long he puzzled his brain to obtain an introduction, but marriages are made in heaven, and heaven had decreed that Frank Bangs should have served as commissary sergeant in Capt. Blair's company. Then followed the inevitable result, and the last chapter of one romance ended conventionally with wedding chimes in the village church at Columbia, S. C.

There was a sequel to the love story, however, in the person of a daughter, to whom was given the name of Eugenie, and she was destined to follow in her mother's footsteps. Theater-goers, who had feared that marriage would deprive them of a prime favorite in the person of Mrs. Blair, soon found that their fears were groundless, for the actress was wedded to her profession as well as to the confederate officer, and up till three years ago she continued in her devotion to the boards. And so it was that Miss Eugenie was almost raised before the footlights.

She made her debut as a minor member of John T. Raymond's company in Hooley's theater, Chicago.

When questioned as to her career Miss Blair showed much enthusiasm for her profession, and among other things said:

"Yes, I have always had a longing for the stage as a profession, and, of course, the fact that my mother was an actress has added to my leaning in that direction. I think perhaps though the real reason for my adopting the profession was my admiration for Miss Adelaide Neilson. It was at Detroit that I first saw her and the play was Twelfth Night. She was the Viola of the cast, of course, and it seemed to me when I saw her that she was the greatest actress I had ever seen. Indeed. I think so still. A longing came over me to be like that, and my aspirations were thoroughly aroused.

"Soon afterward I acted on the impulse given me at that performance, and from that hour I have made Miss Neilson my ideal. I can hardly describe even myself the fascination which she possessed. It was not one quality, I think, but the magnetic influence which she seemed to exert over her audience, seemed to me, to bring people more into sympathy with the part she had undertaken than any power exercised by other actresses. She was so pretty and graceful and winning in her natural manner, and she seemed to blend those qualities with those of the character she was playing. I have seen Bernhardt and most of the great actresses of the day, but somehow they do not appear to address themselves to each individual in the audience as Miss Neilson did. I have always looked upon that performance of Twelfth Night as a turning point in my life."

After Dark.

Another strong realistic melodrama will be at the People's theater all this week. After Dark deals with the side of life that its name implies, and in portraying the dark side of a wicked city many strong situations are brought out. Beside the wonderful mechanical and scenic effects W. A. Brady has secured a good company for the piece, and they have received very favorable mention at other cities. Among the specialties will occur a four-round sparring bout between Jim Corbett, the young Californian who has proven such a wonder, and Jim Daly, champion heavyweight, of Pennsylvania. This will be a big attraction for sporting people.

At Wheeler's This Week.

This is to be a good week at Wheeler's opera house, and the attractions are of a varied character. Downing, in Julius Caesar, to-night; Frank Daniels, in Little Puck, Wednesday; Evans and Hoey, in A Parlor Match, Thursday, and Emerson's minstrels, Friday.

"OH, HORROR!"

Ed Stevens' New Play—Four Murders in the First Act.

Ed Stevens is property man of the Shenandoah company, which was at Wheeler's Saturday night. Ed is a genial, good fellow, and were it not for a peculiar weakness born, no doubt, of his connection with the stage, for writing blood-curdling comedies, he might be the presiding genius of some star aggregation. But his playwriting keep him poor, and he has not the time necessary to fully complete his conceptions.

Last evening Ed entertained a number of the company at the Burnett with the first act of a new comedy entitled "Oh, Horror."

The chief characters are Joe Mole, a tramp; Lena Phat, a domestic; Hannah, a domestic, and Peleg, the master of Ballinda. Peleg committed four murders in the first half of the first act by strangling Lena and Hannah twice with a towel. It is too expensive to have four "domestics" in one company so he will have Lena and Hannah do a duel role.

The piece is replete with humor, and there are any number of startling situations, particularly where Peleg gets in his work with the towel.

He has written the play so that each member of the Shenandoah company will have a suitable part. Those who heard of it last night were delighted with it, and propose trying it on the public of Youngstown Wednesday night.

Ed says he will have the piece completed by Christmas. One member of the company remarked he was going to run no chances, but would have his life insured at once.

WITH BUSINESS PUSH

Fayette Has Placed Politics on the Shelf.

The Citizens Are Now Engaged Booming Their Town and Erecting New Buildings.

Fayette, Ohio, Nov. 9.—(Special)—Election is over and the republicans are not altogether hpapy after all. The news from New York, Iowa, Massachusetts, and New Jersey chills the Ohio victory. So far as Ohio is concerned, "the Dutch have captured Holland," and the whole result must be considered in order to form a true estimate of the fall elections of 1891.

The democrats have no cause to abandon the fight against protection. "Tariff reform" is still the watchword, and will be until this great nation enjoys such political and commercial fredom as its greatness and importance among nations entitles it to.

Our town has made some fine improvements this season. The new harness shop of Leroy Brenner is a model building and an evidence of the good taste of the proprietor and mechanics constructing it.

Trowbridge & Bachman have erected a new business building corner of Main and Cherry streets and intend occupying it as a musical instrument and sewing machine warhouse and salesroom.

A new brick block on the southeast corner of Main and Fayette streets is being erected by Messrs. Ashelman, Hicker & Hibbard—three rooms 22x50 feet, two stories high. This building will be ready for occupancy in about 60 days. It is a fine improvement and is a monument to the enterprise of its projectors.

Our Normal school is booming this fall. Over 200 students are already enrolled and more are adding their names every day. The outlook for this institution is very flattering.

President Dodds is certainly a fine example of "the right man in the right place."

The University lecture course was opened by Dr. James Hedley, of Cleveland, O. This was Mr. Hedley's second appearance in Fayette, and he was greeted by a large and appreciative audience.

The lecture association have provided an excellent course this season, and it was fortunate that Dr. Hedley was selected to give the initial number.

The long talked of extension of the Lake Shore railway has begun. Whether the beginning will be the ending or not, is for the future to determine. Grading is finished about seven miles west and track laid nearly that distance, or to the Mackinaw.

The agent of the company who was here getting right of way, &c., stated positively that the road would be extended to Elkhart, Ind., as soon as possible.

Both air and water abound in microbes, or germs of disease, ready to infect the debilitated system. To impart that strength and vigor necessary to resist the effect of these pernicious atoms, no tonic blood-purifier equals Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

CHICAGO IS NOT UNEASY.

The Indiana Boundary Line Cannot Be Shifted So as to Include Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Fernando Jones, whose long connection with the real estate title business has made him a recognized authority on the question of land boundaries, ridicules the Indianapolis story to the effect that the Indiana line could be moved so as to include Chicago.

"The boundary line between Illinois and Indiana," said he to-day, "has been surveyed and established by a committee appointed for that purpose by both states and the federal government 40 years ago, and granite blocks have been set up at several points as monuments of the boundary. It is a settled principle of law that boundary lines so established cannot be disturbed."

THE DOINGS IN BRAZIL.

The Events of the Past Two Years Reviewed.

A Squabble for Power Which Ended in Rebellion.

The People Follow a New Leader Without Any Apparent Trouble and Business Jogs Along in Its Usual Channels.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The news of the civil trouble in Brazil was received with peculiar interest at the state department because of its possible bearing upon elaborate plans of Pan American reciprocity, which have thus far been carried out by Secretary Blaine.

If British influence should become paramount in the new republic it might lead to the speedy abrogation of the reciprocity treaty which was recently accepted by the Brazilian congress.

It is well known here that English tradesmen in Rio de Janeiro, who are numerous and influential, have done all they could to prejudice the treaty and break down American influence, and it will not be surprising to learn that they have enlisted one of the political factions on their side. Minister Conger confirms the substance of the dispatches, that trouble has broken out, and that the country has been placed under martial law.

He regards the outbreak as part of a plot to restore the empire. The news is somewhat disappointing to those who have looked upon Brazil as firmly established among republican states, and they are at a loss to understand how sentiment can have grown so rapidly in favor of the imperialists.

The Brazilians may have been a little disappointed to find that we are simply using a treaty with them to outflank Spain in our efforts for Cuban trade, but the republicans among them are probably willing to see the arrangement fairly tried before abandoning it.

Senhor Mendonca is a pronounced republican and was sent here in place of Senhor Valente last winter because of his sympathy with republican institutions. Senhor Valente, with his preference for monarchial forms, was sent to Vienna, which is one of the most conservative courts in Europe.

Well informed Brazilians say that there is little danger of the restoration of Dom Pedro, whatever turn events take. He is "a physical and mental wreck," according to Gen. Batcheller, our minister to Portugal.

The republic of the United States of Brazil was constituted upon the overthrow of the emperor, Dom Pedro II., on November 15, 1889. In 1887 he went to Europe for the benefit of his health, leaving the government in charge of the crown princess, Dona Ysabel, whom general report charged with being too much under the influence of the Jesuits.

Her husband, Gaston, d'Orleans, Count d'Eu, was greatly disliked, and a large number of persons in favor of a republic determined that the monarchy should end with Dom Pedro's reign. The princess, who been largely instrumental in causing the passage of the law of May 13, 1889, which freed three-quarters of a million of slaves, thus putting an end to human bondage in Brazil, had thereby incurred the enmity of the planters. Her alleged opposition to religious liberty and the fact that the pope had sent her the rose of virtue further increased the ill feeling toward her.

Fresh fuel was added to the fire of discontent when Joao Alfredo was replaced as prime minister by Auro Petro, whose economical policy was regarded with great distrust, and whose rumored intention of supplanting the army with a national guard which could be relied on for its loyalty to the throne led to a plot among the officers to drive him from office by a military revolt. They were aided in the movement by the politicians of the liberal party, the planters and all the other enemies of the princess.

As the plot was perfected its scope was extended so as to include the overthrow of the dynasty and the proclaiming of a republic, the leaders in the revolt to assume the chief offices in the provisional government.

On November 16, 1889, the revolt was announced to Dom Pedro in a letter written by Marshal Deodora da Fonseca. The revolutionary government was composed as follows: Chief, Marshal Fonseca; minister of the interior, Aristides da Silveira, Lobo; minister of finance, Dr. Ruy Barbosa; minister of war, Benjamin Constant; minister of marine, Rear Admiral Eduardo Wandenkolk, and minister of foreign affairs, Quintano Bocayuva.

Fonseca was then 56 years old. His career had been almost entirely a military one, and most of it had been passed away from Rio. The peaceful administration of Dom Pedro had given this soldier very little chance to gain distinction.

Fonseca's father was a wealthy Portuguese, who, early in this century, received concessions of land in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, emigrated to Brazil, married a native of that country, and had three sons, who were educated at the polytechnic school at Rio. All entered the army. When the war with Paraguay broke out they went to the front and became generals. One died in 1889, another has been at the head of the army in Bahia and the other is the present dictator.

The revolution was accomplished in the most peaceful manner. On the morning of November 15 all of the Ministers of State except the Baron de Ladario, convened at the large and extensive barracks fronting the great public garden and park, the Praca d'Acclamaca. Soon afterward Fonseca, at the head of a battery of artillery and a small body of cavalry, appeared in front of the building, and Fonseca sent in a summons to the Ministry to resign.

Business was interrupted for one day only by the revolution. The republican form of government met with general favor, especially among the youth of the country. The new rulers kept a sharp watch on all telegraphic intercourse and news agencies, but otherwise betrayed no repressive tendencies. They set about to reverse ecclesiastical influences and centralization of power. Only in Rio Grande do Sul and Bahia were there any signs of discontent, and these provinces were pacified by the patriotic proclamation of the new Governor of Rio Grande, General Visconde de Pelotas.

The empire was changed into a confederacy of twenty States, consisting of the former provinces, the capital, with its four hundred thousand inhabitants, being declared a neutral district. The assumption of powers never assumed by the Emperor, however, led to the cry of "military dictatorship" among the old republicans and monarchists. Obnoxious citizens were promptly arrested, among them Silveria Martins, who headed the opposition in the southernmost State. There was a revolt also among the negroes, who feared a return of slavery.

Rival politicians tried to undermine the men in power, and were severely dealt with, 400 of their followers being transported to the penal settlement of Fernando de Norvaha, and 1,500 being locked up at Rio. The insurgents on December 18 went to one of the palaces, tore up the republican flag and hoisted the flag of the Empire. They were quickly subdued, 100 of them killed or wounded. Twenty-one civilians and soldiers were summarily tried and shot as ringleaders. Fifteen prominent citizens were placed under arrest. A military dictatorship was established, and on January 15 Fonseca assumed the rank of generalissimo. In September, 1890, he was elected President under the new constitution, and was inaugurated on February 24 following.

The new constitution was modeled upon that of the United States and was signed by 228 Senators and Deputies. It was thought that Fonseca's ill health would cause him to resign in favor of Senator Barros, but he did not do so. The people have lately been discontented with a military man as their chief magistrate, especially as another General, Floriano Peixoto Ceemgalso, was chosen Vice President.

Since then there have been many changes in the Ministry, owing to financial difficulties and other reasons. Congress and the President have not agreed well together, each doing everything to embarrass the other. Fears of a return to military dictatorship have inspired the legislators to do all in their power to curtail the powers of the Chief Executive. Their efforts have resulted in the very state of affairs they so dreaded.

NOT RAGS, BUT WOOD.

The Mystery of Making Paper Explained by a Salesman.

The old copy-book line, "Paper is made of rags," has become obsolete in fact, if not in use. Formerly all paper was made out of rags, worn-out clothing and the like, and when such material as straw was first introduced there was a general outcry. Now, however, comparatively little paper is made out of rags exclusively, a fact which is fortunate, as the quantity of paper now used is so great that there would not be enough worn-out clothing or shoddy to supply the demand. The strangeness of it is that while paper is being used for dozens of purposes formerly monopolized by wood or even a harder material, such as car wheels, boxes, barrels, tubs, pails and so forth, wood is rapidly driving other ingredients to the wall in the manufacture of nearly all the cheaper grades of paper. Wood-pulp is made by a comparatively lengthy process, but by taking the mills to river banks where there is raw material and water power at hand it can be reduced at less than half the price formerly charged. This, more than anything else, is the cause of the cheapness of grades of paper below the average quality, and also of the steady gravitation of the paper manufacturing business from east to west.

THE NEW POLICY.

Is the Administration Contemplating Acquisitions Abroad?

What is Behind the Mole St. Nicholas Negotiations and the Nicaragua Canal Scheme.

The state department, under the president's guidance, says the Baltimore Sun, is contemplating a policy of acquisition abroad, partly for the reason that our navy needs coaling stations in the various quarters of the world, and in part because it is desirable to withdraw public attention from domestic questions, such as the tariff, civil service reform and the like.

A beginning of this policy was made in the effort to secure a protectorate over Hayti as a means of controlling Mole St. Nicholas, the failure of which attempt is believed to have caused Minister Douglass's recall. When the Nicaragua canal shall have been completed, is will be important, it is thought, to have a rendezvous for our fleet at some point commanding an entrance into the Carribbean sea.

There are many such entrances, and several points more or less convenient for the purpose in question. The Mole St. Nicholas is one of them, and the bay of Samana, also in the island of Hayti is another. A third, which the state department is now sounding public opinion about, is on the coast of the island of St. Thomas. This it is proposed to buy of Denmark at a stiff price. If a line be drawn southeast from the coast of Florida to the coast of South America it will traverse first Cuba, then Hayti and, third, a group of small islands—of which St. Thomas is one—extending from north to south and reaching to within a short distance of the South American coast.

These islands command the southeastern entrance into the Carribbean sea, just as Mole St. Nicholas commands the eastern. St. Thomas would be a fairly good starting point for an American fleet intended to police the sea adjacent to the eastern terminus of the Nicaragua canal. Denmark is to be sounded as to its willingness to sell, and congress will be invited to accept Denmark's terms. This, it will be remembered, is not the first time the project has been agitated.

About the time Alaska was acquired Mr. Seward obtained Denmark's consent to sell to the United States for $7,500,000 This was in 1867. Denmark agreed to take the $7,500,000 for the islands of St. Thomas and St. John, provided their inhabitants would consent to the transfer of allegiance. The United States senate, however, refused to ratify Mr. Seward's treaty, since which refusal the negotiation has been in statu quo ante.

If now renewed Denmark, it is believed, would agree to take something less than $7,500,000, cash being somewhat in demand at present in Prince Hamlet's country. The sale would relieve the Danes of an unprofitable possession.

There is much question whether the acquisition of St. Thomas would be profitable to the United States owing to the fact that it is every now and then tossed up, so to speak, by earthquakes and swept by hurricanes, which are attended by destructive conflagrations. It is now a more or less frequented coaling station for merchant ships. Its population is about 12,500, occupying an area of about 25 square miles. Its commerce is declining. The hurricanes have compelled the French and English mail steamers to remove their respective coaling stations to other islands—the first to Kingston, the others to Martinique. The British Mail company alone in 1867 lost at St. Thomas by earthquakes and hurricanes property worth $8,000,000.

It is not by any means clear therefore, that St. Thomas is the best possible resort for our new navy. Our loss of vessels in a hurricane off Apia some years ago should be a lesson to us. If we are to have coaling and naval stations, let them be places of refuge rather than places of special peril.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and refreshes the mind.

Distress After Eating Sick Headache Heart-burn Sour Stomach

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. After eating I would have a faint or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble was aggravated by my business, painting. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." GEORGE A. THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Delegates to the General Assembly on Hand.

Committees at Work—General Secretary Hayes Here—The Reception To-Morrow Evening—Notes.

The Jefferson was the scene of meeting and fraternal greetings yesterday between incoming delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, which opens here to-morrow. From Maine to the Rocky mountains and beyond, from Florida to the Indian territory, local organizations in this order have representatives here. The order have representatives here.

The following committees are busily at work at the Jefferson house to-day, and will be ready to report to-morrow, when the convention is called to order:

On Credentials—John A. O'Neill, N. T. A. 160 (potters), Trenton, N. J., chairman; Mrs. A. P. Stevens, D. A. 72, Toledo, secretary; Ed J. Lee, N. T. A. 246 (surface railroad), Albany, N. Y.; J. F. S. Robinson, Indiana state assembly; Peter Wise, N. T. A. 135 (coal men), Scottdale, Penn.

On Law—Milton George, D. A. 49, New York city, chairman; H. F. Dempsey, D. A. 3, Pittsburg, Pa., secretary; W. H. Dennis, D. A. 72, Toledo; J. R. Sovereign, Iowa state assembly; Robert Schilling, D. A. 108, Milwaukee, Wis.

On Finance—Thos. Neasham, D. A. 82, (U. P. employes), Denver, Col., chairman; Joseph R. Mansion, D. A. 68, Troy, N. Y., secretary; P. H. Quinn, D. A. 99, Providence, R. I.

The committee on reception and on the grand ball have completed their work.

Reception To-morrow Night.

The reception in Memorial hall to-morrow night will be called to order by W. D. Hudson, of Napoleon, master workman of D. A. 72, headquarters in Toledo. The welcome to Toledo will be extended to the delegates by Mayor Emmick, and the response on behalf of the knights will be made by General Master Workman Powderly. Other distinguished representatives of the order will speak briefly upon its aims and purposes.

Committees for the evening are: Escort to G. M. W. Powderly and other general officers, Richard Kind, W. H. Dennis; escort to vice-presidents, Hugh O'Rielly, Fred Frech. Ushers, H. S. Beard and aids.

The vice-presidents will be clergymen and representatives of labor organizations other than the knights. A number of clergymen have signified their intention to be present, and letters of regret have been received from Revs. J. A. P. McGaw and A. J. Fish that duty calls them elsewhere. Mr. Fish read his letter of invitation from the pulpit of St. John's church yesterday, and spoke warm words of sympathy for all labor organizations which are organized, as are the knights, to secure better conditions by legitimate means.

Toledo citizens generally are invited to show their interest in this convention by attending this public reception.

The Ball Wednesday Night.

On Wednesday night a ball will be given in Pythian castle, and all the delegates will be present, General Master Workman Powderly leading the grand march.

On reception—Mrs. Mary Collins, Mrs. A. P. Stevens, Mr. J. J. Kessler, Mr. Richard Kind.

At the door—Messrs. D. L. Mynihan, Frederick Frech, H. S. Beard, W. T. Farrell.

On the floor—Messrs. Frederick Frech, J. N. Redmond, J. A. Asper, Misses Clara Speckhardt, Josie Skehan, Bee Dailey.

Check room—W. H. Dennis, Hugh O'Reilly.

The Regular Sessions.

Walbridge hall has been beautifully decorated, and within its doors the delegates will gather to-morrow morning to legislate for the Order and for mankind. The stars and stripes cover the walls, festoons of evergreen and the national colors are gracefully interwoven about the room, and banners of the local assemblies of the order are displayed.

Especially beautiful is the banner of L. A. 3031 (German local of Toledo), which is extended above the chair of the presiding officer. This banner of silk is hand-wrought upon one side with plane, paint-brush, hammer, wheat-heads and other symbols of labor and its fruit, surrounded by a wreath of oak leaves, above which is the motto, "Eintracht Mechstark"—"Union Makes Strength." The other side is the American flag. Around the room are mottoes, "Honor the Worker," "No Child Labor," "No Convict Contract Labor," "Eight Hours," etc.

A Good Attendance.

Everthing promises a large and successful convention. A number of the hotels have already been filled, and it is estimated that by to-morrow night 125 delegates will be here. The business may all be concluded this week, as this is not election year.

Congratulations.

General Secretary Hayes, at the Jefferson, has received messages of congratulation and good wishes from the assemblies of the order in South Africa. These, and all other locals in foreign countries, will be represented by proxy in this convention, as a matter of economy, saving the expense of sending delegates direct. Canada and the United States only have delegates present. Nearly every state and territory in the union has its representatives.

Congratulations and fraternal greetings were also received to-day from the Societie Centrale du Travail Professionnel, le Paris, signed "U. Villard."

District Secretary Stevens is notified that a special from Fort Wayne, Ind., may come in to-morrow night to attend the public reception.

HEAD CUT OPEN.

A Boy Gets a Dangerous Wound from a Club in the Hands of a Negro.

What may prove a serious crime occurred Saturday night on the sidewalk at the rear of the People's theater. While the scenery and properties of the Dark Secret company were being removed a crowd of boys were standing around watching the proceedings.

Giles Wiggins, a colored man employed about the theater, made an effort to drive the crowd back, and in doing so struck 16-year-old Harry Hoover on the forehead with a piece of board. The blow was a terrific one, knocking the boy down and laying almost the entire forehead bare of flesh, the skin hanging down over the eyes.

Chief of Police O'Dwyer and Detective John Manly happened to be in the theater at the time, and at once arrested Wiggins and sent him to the police station, where he is now held. A charge of assault with intent to wound was placed against him, and as a revolver was found in his pocket, he is also charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Young Hoover was taken to Dr. Woods' office, where his wound was dressed. His home is over Egley's shoe store on Summit street, where he lives with his mother, and where he is now lying in a dangerous condition.

OVER A PRECIPICE.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 9.—A report from Mont Valley Springs is to the effect that an ox team belonging to a North Carolina farmer named John Henry, who was coming to this place with a load of apples, ran away down Chillhowie Mountain. Henry, his wife and two children were thrown over a precipice over 100 feet high and all killed.

Make two cakes, one with Cleveland's baking powder; the second with any other. Note the difference.

The Cleveland cake is fine grained, keeps its natural flavor and moisture; "the other" is coarse grained, as if the sugar was too coarse, soon dries out and becomes husky.

Cleveland's leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

REV. MRS. TOWNSLEY

Speaks at the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mrs. Frances E. Townsley, who preached an interesting sermon at the First Baptist church last evening, was formerly pastor of the Baptist church at Fairfield, Me., after having traveled as an evangelist for 12 years, and has again resumed that work for a year. Her text last evening was from Romans 1-16. "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." The first comment was upon the condition of the world when Paul made that statement. He confronted three great powers of earth: Rome, with her martyrs, Greece, with her learning, Judea, claiming the purest religion that has been bequeathed to man.

The speaker stated that in the present century, "we are not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for many reasons," and gave four of them, firstly, its adaptation to different classes and sorts of people, by its double system of penalties and promise, punishments and rewards, Hegel and Geo. Eliot were spoken of as ridiculing the idea of reward, but their position was shown up as betraying ignorance of the needs of humanity—not alone the Proctors, the Harveys, the Miltons, the Raphaels, and the Edmund Burkes, who were all believers in this gospel, but the homeless tramp, and the drunkards of our own day and age. Secondly, we are not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, because of its victories, in nations and individual lives; thirdly; a wonderful gospel because of the simple terms, namely, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." The speaker then entered into the nature of real beliefs, the condition of man necessiating such a belief and the all comprehensive meaning of such a belief. Fourthly: the gospel is the only system that declares the forgiveness of sins. This point was dealt upon with a close application to the different ages, characters, and temptations of the audience.

The sermon was closed with an earnest appeal to the church to prove their mission by uplifting Him who said: "And if I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me."

Miss Townsley is written of by an eminent divine as follows: "She is a woman of remarkable power of language, and of much eloquence. She is a modest, womanly woman, honest, true as the needle to the pole, and will do only the things that make for peace. She is a woman that women will love and men respect, and has the confidence of those who know her. There are no queer things or eccentricities about her. She is a brilliant woman of rare gifts, dedicated to the Lord, and she is faithful in her work. Time has developed no point of weakness in her achievements. For more than two years she labored as an evangelist with the Baptist churches of Vermont, adding largely to their members, and gaining the reputation everywhere of a remarkable preacher, with strong common sense, peculiarly adapted to her work. She is a singer and a writer in prose and poetry, of no mean order. A born leader, she is not easily disconcerted. She has been in and out of our homes and I gladly record my appreciation of her worth. Miss Townsley was licensed in 1874 by the Shelburne Falls, Mass., Baptist church, and was ordained after years of Gospel work, by a large council in Fairfield, Neb., in 1885."

Miss Townsley will go to Alliance from here to begin gospel meetings with the Baptist church there, November 12. Her Ohio address is Marion, O., 87 S. Main street. Pastors desiring to arrange for meetings through the fall and winter can reach her at that point.

PETTY THIEVING

Going on in the Various Parts of the City.

The Police Exerting Themselves to Get Hold of the Thieves—Tighten Up the Doors and Windows.

An epidemic of sneak thieving seems to have struck the city, and numerous losses from this cause have been reported to the police. It will be well to keep doors locked and look out for your valuables.

About 2:30 Sunday morning a burglar entered the residence of F. H. Tanner, 1453 Huron street, and extracted $3 from Mr. Tanner's pants pocket. After the festive burglar had scattered things around considerably, Mr. Tanner awakened and started to find out what was the matter. He soon met the intruder in the sitting room, but the burglar escaped through an open window.

Burglars also made an attempt early Sunday morning to enter a house on the corner of Erie and Ash street, by prying open a window, but they were frightened away.

Friday night the clothes line of Mrs. Salisbury and Mrs. Anderson, 612 Madison street, was stripped of the clothes hanging on it and the thieves have not yet been found.

The thieves were also getting in their work along the docks and stole several suits of clothes out of the tug Warswick some time yesterday afternoon and some one broke into the Commodore George Butterfield's boat house near the old Island House and stole a quantity of whisky and cigars off his yacht.

Several robberies occurred last week and have just been reported to the police, who are diligently looking up all these cases.

On the night of November 5th a harness was stolen from the barn of John Flynn, living just beyond the asylum and no trace of it has yet been found.

Michael Drelin, boarding at the St. Clair house, corner of St. Clair and Orange streets, reports that a watch was stolen from his room last Wednesday.

Fred Clifton, head waiter at the St. James hotel, has suddenly left for parts unknown, and a watch belonging to Julius Hindeman, a boarder at the hotel, is supposed to have gone with him. At least it is missing under very suspicious circumstances. Clifton is thought to have a "pal" in the bartender of Doelker's saloon, across the street. This young man skipped Saturday night with $8 of his employer's money.

A SUFFRAGE CLUB

To Be Formed at Holland on Wednesday—The Y's Anniversary.

There will be a meeting of the ladies who reside in the village of Holland, in this county, on Wednesday afternoon to talk over the feasibility of organizing a suffrage club. The meeting will be addressed by Mrs. E. S. Fray, of Toledo, who is the organizer for the state association for this congressional district. The ladies will assemble at the home of Mrs. E. C. Olmstead in the afternoon, and in the evening at 7 o'clock there will be a larger meeting in the M. E. church in the same place, where the Ys will celebrate their first aniversary, with a very interesting program. The principal topic of the evening will be school suffrage, and the address will be delivered by Claudia Quigley Murphy, of this city. Thursday evening Mrs. Sears, of Bowling Green, the president of the Wood county W. C. T. U., will deliver an address at the F. M. church. All who are interested in the work are cordially invited to be present.

Natural Gas Explosion in Tiffin Last Night.

Adolph Greiner, a Former Toledoan, Barely Escapes Death While at Work in a Brewery.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—A natural gas explosion occurred in the engine room of the Tiffin Brewing company's establishment last night which came very near costing Adolph Greiner his life.

Greiner, who is foreman of the brewery and a former resident of Toledo, turned on the gas preparatory to starting the fire.

When he struck a match a terrific explosion took place, hurling the heavy iron doors across the room in close proximity to Greiner's head. The blaze burned his face and hands severely.

SENSATION IN BERLIN.

Friedlaenger & Somerfeld Failed Saturday.

The Leading Members of the Firm Attempt to Take Their Lives—the Latter Successful.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—The banking house of Friedlaenger & Somerfeld failed Saturday and Somerfeld and his son, Felix, knowing that arrest would follow, attempted suicide by shooting.

As the facts in the case developed it appeared that father and son met in their office in the bank early Saturday morning and discussed the crisis in their affairs.

After talking over the matter they concluded that, as they were hopelessly embarrassed, they would die. It was understood that this resolution to take their own lives was in a great measure due to the fact that Felix Somerfeld, the son, had become involved in speculations which were more than likely to lead to his arrest on a criminal charge.

Having arrived at the decision that death was preferable to arrest and disgrace, both father and son shot themselves in the head. The son died but the father still lives.

The firm has been in existence for a long time, and held a good position in the financial world. It had earned a solid reputation as a steady-going house. Its customers, who belonged chiefly to the middle class, were scattered throughout the empire. Since the Hirschfeld & Wolff failure many of the principal clients of Friedlaenger & Somerfeld, who had become alarmed regarding the stability of private banking houses, made heavy withdrawals of deposits.

Herr Somerfeld tried to meet the difficulty by attempting to realize on his investments. These, however, were locked up in industrial and other stocks which were not readily marketable, and eventually it was found impossible for the firm to meet its engagements.

The police have taken charge of the firm's office, and have placed seals upon the safes.

FREE CARTAGE WANTED.

Board of Trade to Establish Proceedings

Against Local Lines Before the Interstate Commerce Commission for Alleged Discrimination—General Railroad News.

About a year ago steps were taken by the Toledo Commercial Exchange on behalf of Toledo merchants to obtain free cartage of freight between the business houses and depots of the city. This action was taken by reason of other cities enjoying the same privilege, and it was deemed a discrimination which is an alleged violation of the interstate commerce law.

Free delivery was not granted by the local lines, and the projectors concluded to institute proceedings before the interstate commerce commission. A committee was accordingly appointed to solicit funds to defray expenses.

The required amount has been raised, and a suit will be filed.

A meeting of the directors of the Toledo board of trade has been called for 4:30 p. m. to-day at Thomas and Hiett's law office on Superior street.

The complaint will be made in the name of this organization and action will be taken to-day to this end.

They Are Doing Quite Well.

The Lake Shore agents who have been discharged are evidently not in such bad repute and are finding employment just as remunerative and agreeable. Says the Indianapolis News: When the Lake Shore agents were discharged for taking commissions General Passenger Agent Fee, of the Northern Pacific, at once notified them that he would find places for them as fast as possible. He has already given several of them positions and the result is that there is a very warm feeling everywhere for the Northern Pacific. This is particularly true south of the Ohio river, and the "boys" are all working hard to route passengers for the northwest over that line.

T. & O. C. Improvements.

The Toledo & Ohio lines during the present year have been placed in most excellent condition. The line between Toledo and Fostoria has been ballasted with crushed stone. The remainder of the line has been laid with 67-pound steel, and thoroughly ballasted with gravel. Contracts have been let for a number of elegant and late improved coaches, three of which will be delivered yet this month. Several new and heavy locomotives have been contracted for, and one or two have been delivered. New iron bridges are taking the places of the old wooden structures and the whole system is being placed in first-class condition.

It Is a Rumor.

It is stated that E. T. Osborn, secretary of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis road, will in the near future be appointed vice president of the road to succeed J. D. Layng.

A Few Cinders.

The local freight agents' association will hold its regular meeting to-morrow evening.

President M. D. Woodford of the C., H. & D. and W. & L. E., arrived in the city Saturday night in his private car and remained over Sunday. He was accompanied by Henry A. Taylor and daughter, of Milford, Conn., and E. Zimmerman, of Cincinnati.

Chairman Finley is investigating charges against the Rock Island road, of manipulating west-bound passenger rates by having its tickets on sale in brokers offices.

A meeting of the passenger department of the Central Traffic association will be held in Chicago next Friday.

Passenger business is very quiet at present.

A SECRET ORGANIZATION.

The People's Party to go on with the War.

Grips, Passwords and Dark Lantern Meetings Are Being Discussed in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 9.—(Special)—"Mum is the word," was the ejaculation that greeted a reporter when he entered the room where the Franklin club of the people's party was meeting yesterday afternoon.

A discussion which was in progress was immediately stopped, and other business taken up. It was learned that the matter under discussion was a movement to organize a secret political organization so as to better advance the interests of the party.

A motion had been made by Dr. Wooldridge that a secret political organization be formed, with grips, passwords, etc., so that none but those initiated into the mysteries of the fraternity could participate in the deliberations.

He intimated that the lack of success of the party had been due to open meetings and the participation of men who were not in sympathy with the cause.

He said that one reason of the success of the old parties was that they conducted their private business behind closed doors.

One thing that troubled the doctor was how to keep newspaper men out of the meetings, but he thought this could be done by grips and passwords.

ALASKA FUR HOUSE.

Sussman & Hoffmann, the Toledo Furriers.

To the average citizen who passes up and down Adams street there might not be any great attraction or desire to look in the window or to enter the store-room of the enterprising and successful firm mentioned above, but to a Bee that is looking for honey on a frosty morning the temptation to enter such a comfortable place cannot be resisted.

Of course there are surprises for us all, especially when we look on the inside workings of our business houses and factories, but the lovely display of Lynx, Angora, Sealskin and other furs when grouped together makes a showing that to be fully appreciated must be seen.

To the writer Mr. Robt. Sussman, the senior member of the house, disclosed these facts: "Mr. Emil Hoffman and myself have been carrying on this business since 1884, and we know that we have been fully as successful in our line of business as the average men have been who have taken hold and worked for success." On further inquiry the writer learned that both Mr. Sussman and his partner, M. Hoffmann, are practical furriers, competent to judge of the value of furs, and the practicability of making repairs on fine fur garments. It was further learned from these gentlemen that while it is generally supposed that the advance that was made in sealskins a year ago is still maintained, it is however, not the fact. The prices on these goods are but a trifle more now than at that time. All other imported furs are costing the people more money, while mink and black martin and a few other American furs are in good demand at fair prices. The beaver, that was in large demand some years ago, is now almost entirely out of the market, on account of the high price.

"Our business," said Mr. Sussman, "has steadily advanced, until at the present time we employ thirty-one people, the greater part of whom are employed in our work-rooms, the cut here given being a showing of our people, who are at this season of the year very busy on repairs and new work. While our wholesale trade has increased wonderfully, our retail business has been fully 100 per cent. in advance of other years. Merchants in the neighboring towns, as well as the people here in Toledo, find they need not go to Detroit, Cleveland or Chicago to make their purchases, for they can buy just as good a garment here as elsewhere, and for as little money."

In connection with the manufacture and sale of furs, Messrs. Sussman & Hoffmann are doing a large business in the care, storage and insurance on fur garments during the summer months, a large part of which is done at their own expense, their charge being only on garments stored that need no repairs.

The many friends and patrons of the Alaska Fur House will be pleased to know that their hard work and determination to please has brought them success.

HE WANTS $20,000.

The Milburn Wagon Works Sued for Damage by an Employe.

In common pleas court to-day William W. Gimsen and his attorney, Frank E. Wright, instituted proceedings against the Milburn wagon works to recover $20,000 damages for personal injury. Gimson had an arm cut off September 11, 1890, by a machine known as the sharper, which he was operating at the time.

In the petition Gimsen alleges that the state superintendent of workshops and factories had ordered guards put on the machine for the protection of the operator and others. He charges that regardless of these orders the machine was without guards at the time of the injury, and that the machine was old and defective and was running at an excessive rate of speed.

BY-THE-BYE.

The agitation of the New York Times over the fact that the New York Life Insurance company continues to advertise and do business is almost comical. The head and front of Mr. Beers' offending, at present, seems to be, according to the Times, that "he is spending the company's money" for the purpose of advertising the New York Life Insurance company in the newspapers. Horrid man! If he had any regard for the amenities of life—and the New York Times—he would resign, put up the shutters, stop business, and let his policy-holders go to the—Times. It is downright rude in him to keep on doing business when the Times says he shouldn't ought to. Viewed from the standpoint of Times' journalism it is highly reprehensible that he should advertise in the newspapers and especially that he should spend any money in any of the vast army of papers which are friendly to his company. The Connecticut Mutual has bad long reading matter advertisements in the Times at a dollar a line, yet we haven't heard anything about Mr. Greene's lavish expenditure of his company's money. What does the Times want to do? Put a stop to insurance advertising? I admit that the money spent in the Times was unwisely invested. No insurance company should contribute to the support of a newspaper which has been working as hard as the Times has—even if ineffectually—to destroy public confidence in the insurance business. It is no doubt galling to the Times that Mr. Beers continues to do business and protect his policy-holders in the face of the most outrageous abuse that was ever heaped on a man's head by an alleged newspaper. "Mr. Beers should resign."

* * *

What! Resign in the face of the enemy? Admit himself beaten? Allow the Times' charges to stand as proven by his withdrawing from the fight? Bosh! No one but an idiot, a coward or a Times editor would think of such a thing. It would certainly not be characteristic of Mr. Beers, who is a plucky fighter, as the Times will discover to its cost. Mr. Beers is pursuing the only course open for a manly man under the circumstances. He has applied for an official investigation, opened suits against the Times, and now he is attending strictly to business in the way that every man with an atom of brains builds up his business—by vigorous work and by advertising. Is there a newspaper in the country which will deny the value of advertising? But common sense arguments seem wasted on the Times. It has started out on a mistaken course, and it has not manhood enough to back down and acknowledge its error.—New York Journalist.

TOLEDO, OHIO, NOVEMBER 9, 1891.

Calling a colleague a "hound" and "perjuring scoundrel," is a poor way for Representative Griffin to commence his campaign for speaker.

A congressional district that will send Mack of Sandusky, to Washington, would be the appropriate way to reward long and faithful work for his party.

One-half of the democratic side of the senate will come from northwestern Ohio. Geyer, Shaw, Stewart and Gear were saved from the wreck of last week.

Columbus life will be irksome to the man who has been at the head of affairs in Washington. Major McKinley is to be commiserated on his misfortune.

Columbus republicans thus early demand the passage of a municipal reorganization bill. Home rule will take an outing while the rippers have an inning.

Senator McConica has declared for Foraker. This is in the nature of a surprise to Sherman's lieutenants in Toledo, who have counted on the Findlay statesman as their friend in need.

If the republicans fail to agree upon a candidate for senator, there is Ebenezer Willing Poe, of Wood. We pin our faith to Eb. Give him a fair chance and he will get there.

When Gov. McKinley gets ready to reorganize the public institutions Col. Smead will probably be returned to the board of managers of the penitentary. He is one of the best men ever appointed to that position.

Representative Winn, of Defiance county, will obtain legislative experience under adverse circumstances. The South Carolina corner will be very small, but Winn is a fighter and his constituents will hear from him.

Hon. T. E. Peckingpaugh, the democratic candidate for auditor of state at the recent election, ran five hundred votes ahead of his ticket in his own county—Wayne. That is a home record of which any man might well be proud.

County seat quarrels defeated two democratic candidates for representative in northwestern Ohio—Baker, of Ottawa, and Denman, of Williams. It was an unfortunate combination of circumstances for our side.

If Grover Cleveland declines to be the candidate of his party next year Senator Gorman, of Maryland, would be a formidable eastern candidate. The splendid fight he made against the Force bill, and the sweeping victory in his state last week will count largely in his favor.

The election of Major McKinley to be governor of Ohio does not take him out of the presidential race, neither does the appointment as secretary of the treasury eliminate Charley Foster from the senatorial scramble. These two of the big four may yet give the other two considerable trouble.

It is quite evident that Toledo is a republican city except when the policy of the party is so contrary to general sentiment that the people smash the machine and set up a reform movement. Being in the majority the republicans must assume the responsibility of municipal government, good or bad. There is occasion now for the conservative element among our entire citizenship to consider the financial question, and the republicans ought to invite a conference on this subject. We are not getting along fairly well because of the enormous debt that is piling up from various causes. There must be a reckoning time some day, and now is a good time to anticipate it. The republicans must face the question, or there will be a political smash that will entirely reverse the supremacy in this city. This is a business warning with a political flavor.

The voluntary resignation of Mr. John Redmond, member of parliament from North Wexford, to stand as the Parnellite candidate in Cork, was a display of loyalty to a cause, which has never found a parallel in the politics of America. Mr. Redmond was a member, now he has lost his own seat by resignation and also the coveted one by election. He staked all and temporarily, at least, lost all. There are frequent instances in New York where men represent congressional districts in which they do not live. The lamented S. S. Cox always represented another district. The constitution of the United States provides that residence in a state is the qualification for representing any district within the state. In Ohio the nearest case of outside representation was when a democratic assembly having legislated Charles Foster out of congress, the republicans of Toledo tendered him their district nomination. He declined the honor. There has been but one instance where national legislators resigned for a cause and stood for re-election, that single exception being the Roscoe Conkling and "Me Too" Platt affair in 1881, and they lost. As a rule politicians in the United States think more of themselves than of the cause they represent and are only too glad to keep close to their seats and the pay roll. Eliminate the honor and the emoluments and there would be fewer office seekers in this country. This is a lamentable truth, but it is the truth all the same.

It is interesting betimes to read the fatherly talk of the Chicago Herald to the people of Ohio, though the flavor of superior wisdom that runs through its screeds is a trifle oppressive and offensive. But while scolding it should be sufficiently familiar with the situation to know that it deals with facts. For instance, it speaks of the democratic gerrymander of the legislative districts, when in fact the legislative districts are fixed by the constitution, even to finding the ratio of representation. The fractions over the ratio in the senatorial districts are apportioned by the governor, secretary of state and auditor of state, who, also, unite for a decade such senatorial districts as are too small for a full representation. Thus, in the rearrangement of the few smaller senatorial districts last winter the republican auditor of state and secretary of state outvoted the democratic governor, and gave the republicans an advantage for the present decade. So, instead of a democratic gerrymander it was a republican trick. The congressional districts of Ohio have been the football of the general assembly more than twenty years. Whenever the politics of the legislature changes the congressional districts are rearranged, and so customary is this proceeding that neither party finds much fault with the practice. The republicans will take advantage of the present situation, and the democrats "will take their medicine" and wait for a good opportunity to return a similar dose. It may be bad politics, but it is Ohio politics, and the state appears to be getting along fairly well.

The Columbus Dispatch, staunchly republican, thus rebukes the organs of its own party that are clamoring for the rejection of Senator Brice's certificate of election:

Several of the republican papers of the state have again become responsible for the opinion that Senator Calvin S. Brice should not be allowed to represent Ohio and that a strong effort should be made to secure his rejection by the senate. Such idle talk of mischief makers and plotters cannot be too emphatically condemned. A proportion of the republicans, in common with a like number of democrats, are easily gulled in these days of excessive partisanship, and therefore, if the impression got abroad that there is even the slightest hope of unseating Senator Brice, there would be ignorant satisfaction and complete misconception among the republicans who do no thinking for themselves.

With no other interest than to do justice, we wish to cite true history and give honest conclusions. Senator Brice was elected fairly by a General Assembly which was undeniably and honestly democratic on a joint ballot. No evidence exists that money was corruptly used to secure the election of Senator Brice. Even the violent partisan press of the opposition has not been able to pick a flaw in the election except in the respect concerning the new senator's right to claim Ohio citizenship. The United States senate is now the only judicial power in the matter and if Mr. Brice declares that he is a resident of Ohio, the opinions of every republican newspaper and every republican in Ohio will not outweigh the worth of the evidence given by the man who knows his mind about his real home.

Calvin S. Brice, if he lives, will, on the first Monday in December, appear in the chamber and will be recognized as the legally elected and qualified successor to the seat of ex-Senator Henry B. Payne. He will retain his seat unless Death claims him or he resigns at will and pleasure and not through coercion. These facts may as well be recognized by all and especially by that class which is liable to be led astray in their judgment by the vaporings of a party press.

REMARKABLE POLITICS.

Post election days bring a return of the republican quarrel in Ohio, of which Toledo is a contentious factor of large proportions. Happily for the republicans they could lay aside the hatchet long enough to win the offices. Even that was more than was expected of them. Now the Foraker men are wilder than ever, and more determined to take John Sherman's scalp. Foremost in the local crusade is seen the inheritance of Dave Locke's personal hatred of the brainiest republican of Ohio, and the tactics employed are of the bulldozing, don't-care-a-farthing-for-honor style that ought to be offensive enough to react in Sherman's favor.

The Blade says "expressions favorable to other senatorial aspirants, made under moral duress at nominating conventions are not to be construed as binding pledges." This would be a remarkable statement, emanating from a respectable source. As it is, it is political heresy and rascality, to be excused because of the moral obtuseness of the author of the sentiment.

This absolution of the representatives and senators from senatorial pledges is intended to pave the way for a flop into the Foraker camp, but evidently the men who will do the voting have minds of their own and a will to do what they deem best.

Representatives Flickinger and Heller have publicly declared their intention to vote for John Sherman. This free and manly declaration incenses their colleague, Mr. Griffin, who so long lorded over ex-representative Messer that he evidently imagines himself the only man from Lucas county who has a right to a legislative opinion. In an interview he calls Mr. Flickinger "a perjuring scoundrel" and a "hound" for daring to announce his preference for John Sherman.

Now this is remarkable politics, from first to last—the injunction of the Blade to break pledges, and the abuse of his colleague by Mr. Griffin. It is a republican kettle of fish, very malodorous, but the Bee puts in its sting long enough to prick a little sensible admonition into Mr. Griffin's noddle: the less he stirs up Mr. Flickinger, the better for Mr. Griffin. Mr. Flickinger is a gentleman, and possesses the instincts of a gentleman. He fully appreciates the responsibility which attaches to the office to which the people of Lucas county elected him by a large majority, and he will probably do his own thinking, acting, speaking and voting in Columbus without any help or interference from his colleague, Mr. Griffin.

The claim that northwestern Ohio will be solid for Foraker was shot off at half-cock. The contrary is nearer the truth. Crafty John Sherman deals with big politics and evidently has his forces well in hand.

'RECIPROCITY THIMBLERIGGING.'

One important branch in the study of the question of trade between countries is well presented in Belford's for November by that eminent authority, T. E. Willson, of New York. He gives his paper the very expressive title of "Reciprocity Thimblerigging," and the distinction made between freedom in trade and trade restricted to this country or that, and this or that commodity, called by the fair sounding title of "reciprocity," involves a great deal that should be understood and well considered by the honest inquirer, the man who desires to find truth and reasonableness in argument.

Reciprocity, it is said, is based on the idea that the value of merchandise received from any country must be paid directly to that country either in gold or merchandise—that there can be no liquidation through an exchange of debts or credits with other parties. This, Mr. Willson boldly declares, is not an economic error, but an economic lie, coined to hoodwink the people of the United States into voting for more protection to the mill owners, and to distract their attention from the present tariff bunko of the American farmer. Yet any American farmer who will take the trouble to send to the treasury department for its 1890 report, or any other year, can read and see for himself. The "thimblerigging" consists in presenting to the public the columns of figures which stand for merchandise imports and exports in trade with one country and omitting to place beside them the direct gold and silver traffic. Holding up the table of merchandise only, Blaine says, "notice how our imports exceed our exports and the country is being drained of its gold and silver." For the year 1890, the imports of merchandise from Brazil were $59,318,756, and the exports were $11,972,214; the exports of gold and silver to Brazil in the same time were $583,381 and the imports from the same country $5,728. To place these facts and figures alongside is to expose the reciprocity humbug.

From the treasury report it is found that while we have shipped abroad to twenty-seven countries $261,559,365 in metals, thirty-two other countries have shipped to us $330,077,640 to pay balance due for merchandise, the figures for which are also presented. It is demanded of the republican voter that he should believe that gold and silver shipments must be made to balance merchandise shipments, when the reverse is true; they increase the discrepancy. The voter is given one side of the question to study; what he needs is thorough enlightment and a determination to see and understand both sides for himself.

The difference between trade and barter is cleverly illustrated: trade is an indirect exchange between producer and consumer—"an ideally perfect system of pawnbroking." Figures of transportation—way bills simply—do not stand for trade returns. "If every person could take the products of his labor to a pawnshop and receive a ticket entitling him to take its value from that or any other pawnshop in the world, in anything that might be in pawn anywhere in the world, we should have the exact system of trade. * * * There is no 'reciprocity' between the producer and the final consumer; their accounts would not balance."

"Protection," says Mr. Willson, "is the mill owners' demand that the American farmer should not be permitted to exchange his surplus farm products which he cannot use for foreign mill products which he can use. Farm products must be exchanged for mill products or rot; wheat for wheat, cotton for cotton is not possible. The people of the United States consume $450,000,000 worth of mill goods in excess of what is made in our mills, which the farmer gets abroad in exchange for his surplus farm products, and is the product of his American farm labor. The tariff line is drawn to prevent his farm labor from supplying, through exchange, this slice of the home market for mill goods, and is solely to prevent one American from earning a living in order to give the opportunity to another."

This "reciprocity thimblerigging," in what it purports to do and does not at all, in that it has a string on the farmer's business, an underground passageway to his grain bins, is "a new swindle" which the farmer must not be slow in studying out for himself.

This paper by Mr. Willson should be put in pamphlet form for distribution, as doubtless it will be, for the comprehensive study it gives of the question in its large and complete significance. His advice that the farmer obtain the treasury report, or reports, for ready reference, when the bugbear about "draining the country of its gold and silver" is dinned in his ears, is good advice.

They Will All Learn It.

GRIFFIN'S BAD BREAK

Bursts His Boom for the Speakership.

Flickinger's Manly Action Indorsed by Leading Republicans—Charges and Counter Charges.

Charlie Griffin's attack on Flickinger has burst his boom for the speakership, and whatever chances he may have had for the coveted position have gone a glimmering.

Griffin is trying to back out by saying he was misrepresented, but that don't go, as the reporter who interviewed him stands ready to make an affidavit to the truth of what he wrote.

Flickinger was so red hot Saturday night when he heard of Griffin's attack that it was feared he would seek out his antagonist and perhaps do him bodily harm. He denies most emphatically that he ever entered into any agreement with Griffin or promised to remain neutral. He has been for Sherman first and last and all the time.

This morning he received a score of congratulatory epistles commending him for the manly position he had taken. One thing about Flickinger is, he is no trimmer. He is for or against every time.

The result of Griffin's interview has been to burst his boom for the speakership.

"Foraker may be elected United States senator," said a leading Sherman man this morning, "but I tell you one thing, and that is Griffin will never be speaker of the house. Now, mark my words."

The Foraker men seemed to have been completely paralyzed by the result of Saturday's canvass. It appears to one up a tree that as far as Foraker is concerned he is not in it in Lucas county.

GRIFFIN GETS MAD

And Calls a Colleague Some Ugly Names.

Lucas County Almost Solid for Sherman.

He Has Four Out of Five of State Senators and Representatives—Flickinger, Heller, McConica and Rorick Against Foraker.

Lucas county is just now the center of the Sherman-Foraker fight, although there is lovely fighting, as Phil. Kearney was wont to say, along the whole line.

The Bee's Columbus dispatch of Saturday showed up Foraker's unique political plan of campaign, but Sherman is in the saddle and he does not propose to let the senatorship go by default. Not much.

Prior to the nomination the Bee stated that four out of the five candidates were anti-Foraker. After the nomination the Bee repeatedly reiterated that Flickinger, Heller, McConica and Rorick were out and out Shermanites.

The assertion has been corroborated by the gentlemen themselves. Two of them are out in interviews announcing the fact and the other two are so dead certain, that the Sherman leaders here don't think it even worth while to ask them to make a public confession. In the Commercial of yesterday morning the facts are set forth as follows:

A dispatch appeared in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette stating in substance that all three of the representatives-elect from Lucas county were openly pronouncing themselves to be in favor of ex-Gov. Foraker as United States senator from Ohio to succeed Senator John Sherman. Mr. O. P. Heller, one of the representatives-elect, was seen in reference to the matter, and he said that nobody had been authorized to speak for him on the subject in any way. "I have no hesitation in saying to you," he remarked, "that my preferences are for Mr. Sherman."

Mr. Charles A. Flickinger, another of the representatives-elect, was also seen concerning the same dispatch, and he denied any knowledge of it, further than what he saw in the newspaper. He had not been consulted in regard to it; it looked to him as if the purpose was to precipitate a conclusion on the part of the representatives as to whom they will support, or to place them in a false position.

"Mr. Flickinger, have you formed a conclusion as to whom you will support?"

"In answer to that question I would say that while I greatly admire McKinley, Foster and Foraker as leaders in our party, and would not detract from their greatness, it is my decided opinion that no man in the state of Ohio can fill the place of John Sherman in the United States senate, and I have concluded to give him my support. I believe that by supporting him I shall best promote the highest interests of my county, state and nation.

Hon. Charles P. Griffin was not at all surprised when called upon at his residence last evening and questioned concerning his preference for senator as between Foraker and Sherman.

He was told of the telegram which said that the delegation from this city had all expressed themselves in favor of Foraker.

"It is absolutely wrong so far as I am concerned," Mr. Griffin said, "for I have expressed no preference. To-day I received telegrams of inquiry from the New York World, Cincinnati Enquirer and Cleveland Leader. I answered them all alike by saying that I proposed to support the wishes of the voters of Lucas county and in their interests, should throw personal feelings aside. I was elected to represent the wishes of the republicans of Lucas county and I propose to do it. I do not dislike Mr. Sherman so much nor do I like Mr. Foraker so much as to misrepresent the will of my constituents. The reason I have expressed no preference in this matter, is because I am not thoroughly acquainted with the desires of Lucas county republicans. It will take some little time to find this out, but I will do it even if I have to go to the length of getting a vote on it. I had far rather spend a few hundred dollars out of my own pocket than misrepresent my constituents. Say a card should be inserted in the papers asking the republican voters to write me a line and express their desires, much could be learned in that way, and it would be easy to refer to the poll books and see if they were all republicans in fact. I intend to write to the leading and well known republicans of the townships and ask what the preference is there. This information can be secured in various ways and when I learn whom my constituents wish me to vote for, that is the man for whom I shall cast my ballot. I was not elected to represent myself, but the people. That is the expression of the public and of the press."

"I think, Mr. Griffin," said the reporter, by way of a feeler, "that it will not take much to find out that this county is for Foraker."

"Well, I guess that's so," he replied, smiling broadly.

"Do you think the great contrast in the receptions tendered Foraker and Sherman in this city were any indication of a preference for Foraker?" was asked.

"Well, perhaps so; but then, a greater effort was made for the Foraker meeting. I say this, to be fair in the matter."

"Do you know, Mr. Griffin, what the sentiment is in Lucas county?"

"Well, of course ,I have heard a great deal of talk, but I can answer that question differently after I investigate."

"I understand, Mr. Griffin," said the reporter, "that Mr. Flickinger to-day declared himself as a Sherman supporter."

This acted like a bombshell, and the representative was up in arms in an instant.

"If Mr. Flickinger said that, he is a perjured scoundrel," Mr. Griffin said sharply and emphatically.

"Mr. Flickinger," he continued, "has talked this over with me time and time again, and agreed thoroughly with my suggestions as to the way of finding out the sentiment of our constituents. He told me several times that this was what he proposed to do, and said that if I voted on that basis, he would vote with me. How he can make such a declaration at this hour, not knowing what his constituents desire, is a mystery to me. I say that when a man is elected to a public office, and he consults his own desires rather than those of the people who elect him, he is a hound. There, you have my full expression on the subject, and you are welcome to it."

Whenever there was any reference to Foraker Mr. Griffin always smiled, and a close study of his remarks will clearly indicate what his personal feelings and inclinations are.

PER CAPITA—A FABLE.

Once on a time two monopolists were discussing the dullness of trade, when a politician who knew them came along. Said he: "There are two farmers hard by who have just sold their produce, and I can get them into a little game called protection if you will join." So the monopolists sent the politician $5, and they went at it.

When they started, the politician, who had a turn for figures, said: "Let us see the amount of money per capita in the crowd." It was, politician, $5; two monopolists, $100; two farmers, $100; per capita, $41.

After awhile the farmers went out and borrowed $10 each on their watches, and the game went on.

When they rose from the table the distribution of the money was thus: Politician $25, two monopolists $200, two farmers $00. Per capita $45.

"Thus," said the politician, "the money per capita in this crowd has been raised $4 by our little game of protection, and the country is more prosperous than ever!"

But a British capitalist sold the farmers' time pieces to recover amount lent on deposit, and the farmers were sad.

Moral: The wealth of a nation per capita is a great thing if we all get our share.—New York World.

REPUBLICANS LOVE THE FARMERS.

Emporia, Ks., Nov. 9.—The republicans of this city celebrated their victory over the Farmers' alliance. After the procession an effigy labeled Polk was dragged through the streets by a rope around its neck and was hanged to a telegraph pole and afterwards burned.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That the organ-grinders have gone south to continue their out-door exercise.

That the Elks of this city are growing at a rapid rate, and are not at a standstill yet.

That there are too many unsold bonds lying in the city auditor's vault for the city's good.

That a stroll through any part of the city's beautiful cemeteries will well repay the strollers.

That it is probable the Maumee river will have some new pleasure steamers on her placid bosom next season.

That the Toledo Exposition company will get up a fair next year that will place the last one far in the shade.

That every republican candidate for office makes his bow to President W. I. Squire before proceeding further.

That there is much discontent among rolling mill employes because of the lay-offs necessary from lack of fuel.

That the bondsmen of Will Cook will fight all proceedings until the city becomes more specific as to Cook's shortages.

That many of Ben Wade's friends have enjoyed a ride in his new Irish jaunting car, and others are on his book.

That at least a few Toledo candidates got a hearing before Governor-elect McKinley prior to his departure for the east.

That at least the Ohio Yacht club boys regret the sale and consequent departure of the beautiful Speranza from Toledo.

That most of the city departments are running on borrowed money, which must be paid out of the December tax collection.

That tax-paying time is near at hand, much to the delight of Treasurer Sam Hunter, who has a per cent. interest involved.

That Adams, Cherry and Monroe streets are fast becoming lively business streets, and housekeepers will have to move to the suburbs.

That the Future Great requires several additional school buildings at once, as the present structures are nearly all overcrowded.

That the Northwestern hopes to be able to better supply customers since the new line with its two-million per day capacity has been added.

That Reynold Voit has not yet been made sidewalk inspector by Mayor Emmick, and will not if Eli Bourdo has anything to say, and he thinks he has.

That ex-Congressman Romeis has lost confidence in human nature since Admiral Flickinger has declared for John Sherman. And Jake nominated him too!

That St. John's M. E. Sunday school, which celebrates its anniversary to-night, has the only woman superintendent in the city in the person of Mrs. M. R. Davis.

That Toledo has as fine furniture factories as are to be found in the country, and samples of the work turned out are in many of the most prominent public buildings.

That Gen. J. W. Greene is rather kind o' lost since retiring from the command of the Ohio Brigade, K. P. But he is not complaining of having nothing to do—he is a gas trustee.

That several bottles of ink have already been used up in signing petitions for office under the new administration. "The office seeks the man" has been laid away to rest until the next campaign.

That the question must soon be decided whether Charley Griffin will control Flickinger and Heller, or whether he will have to go it alone. That a difference of opinion now exists is very evident.

That three of the judges in this subdivision of the common pleas district are republican—Messrs. Pugsley, of Lucas, Greene, of Sandusky, and Kelly, of Ottawa. Will this business stop here, or go on?

That Charley Griffin should make a note of the fact that Hamilton county is set down as solid for Frank McGrew, of Springfield, for the speakership. McGrew is a son-in-law of Gen. Asa Bushnell, and a devoted follower of Mr. Foraker.

That Jake Weier is confident of the nomination for police clerk next spring, against M. C. Fogarty. Jake will always believe that Mayor Emmick flim-flammed him out of the office, and proposes to show him a thing or two when the time comes.

That Charley Watts is being groomed to succeed City Solicitor Read. Succession is the word with Toledo republicans—Hunter followed Potter, and Read, Kinney; Durian succeeded Bert Cole, and Ely wanted to succeed Vordtriede, and so on ad infinitum.

That Charley Durian will be a candidate for re-election as city clerk, and so will City Auditor Walker, and City Engineer Wickenden, and Infirmary Director Kirkley—well, in fact all the boys are willing to sacrifice their time for the benefit of Toledo.

PICKINGS BY THE WAYSIDE.

Detective Jim Brown and Billy Lantz have accepted the fishing challenge issued by the boss fishermen, Gunckel and Lorenz. Billy offers to wager a new hat against a railroad pass to Sandusky that he can catch more fish in a given time than both Gunckel and Lorenz. Fishing time is brief, and the contest must come off at once or not at all.

The pupils of the high school have been amusing themselves recently in building bonfires of the dead leaves on the lawn surrounding the building on the hill. The fires once lighted spread in all direction, and looking at the lawn from a distance the traces of the fires look like the unique heiroglyphics on an Egyptian tomb. It is feared that the lawn is marred so that it will be disfigured when the flowers bloom in the spring.

It is a sight to make the cold shivers run down one's back to see the races between the Robison and Consolidated cars for the right of way at the intersection of Morris street and Broadway. The driver of a Consolidated sees an electric coming up the hill and he immediately starts his horses on a gallop, and the result is a red-hot race for the turn. One of these days the race will be a dead heat, and there will not be physicians enough in the city to care for the dead and dying.

The night watchman at Black & Co.'s had a singular experience the other night. The clock had just struck midnight when he chanced to look out of a second story window and he noticed a man walking backwards up the steps leading from Oak on to Huron street. The man continued to walk in this manner down Huron, disappearing on Adams street. Ten minutes later the man reappeared on Oak and finished up his walk round the block, coming as he had gone, backward. The man was one of the successful candidates for representative and was "walking off" a spell that had been wrought that morning by the fact that he had picked up a pin that was lying with its point towards him. Prof. Leree prepared the antidote.

Many singular incidents happen in the Free Employment office. A day or two ago a red-haired woman entered and applied for a position as cook. A well-known hotel keeper was present at the moment hunting for just such a servant.

"This is just the person you want," said Superintendent Murphy, turning to the hotel proprietor. But he shook his head and said he guessed she wouldn't do.

After the woman left the superintendent asked what the hotel man's objection to her was.

"Well," he said, "my wife was frightened half to death a year and a half ago and we have a baby a year old that goes into convulsions at the sight of a red-headed woman. See?"

A Madison street man bet a bonnet against a box of cigars with his wife that McKinley would not have 5,000 majority. He won, of course, but he could not convince his wife of the fact until he called in a neighbor.

"Why, no governor has been elected in Ohio by a majority in 12 years," he said sagely. "The moral of all this is women shouldn't bet."

A little later he was looking up some papers, and he ran across a lovely new bonnet in a bottom drawer. He said nothing for a day or two.

The wife was so certain of the major's election that she had actually gone and bought the bonnet in advance. Now she couldn't return it and couldn't wear it. He saw her dilemma, and after enjoying it for a few days handed her over a $20 gold piece.

"You won your bonnet," he said. "McKinley would have had a majority were it not for the prohibitionists, and they don't count in Ohio."

She thinks he is about the most level-headed man in Toledo and was tickled to death to see how pleased he was when she showed him her new bonnet. John says bonnets come high, but then he is in the hat business and ought not to have been very much surprised.

At an experience social a few nights ago a lady stated that she had embroidered a skirt, for her dollar, and recited the following reason in connection therewith:

We can live without music, we can live without art.
We can live without poets, we can live without heart.
We can live without friends, we can live without flirts.
But where is the girl that can live without skirts?

An Alarming State of Affairs Exists in the States of Tennessee and Kentucky.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 9.—The situation of affairs in Tennessee is becoming alarming.

Suspicious communication is being held between the east Tennessee miners and the miners of Kentucky, Alabama and Virginia.

The hardy mountaineers who released the convicts have sworn that the governor shall not rebuild the stockades, and that if he sends the convicts back to the mines they will be butchered in cold blood.

It has been stated officially that the rebellion of the miners, so far as estimated, has damaged the commercial standing of east Tennessee to the amount of millions of dollars.

Two town companies, one with $50,000,000 capital and located at Bristol, the other with $100,000,000 capital and located at Elizabethtown, have refused to enter the state, claiming that the state, not being able to protect its own interests cannot protect the interests of capital.

Petroleum as a Medicine

Dr. C. L. Dreese, Goshen, Ind., writes:

"In the treatment of the mucous membranes, especially of the nose, throat, and lungs, I find Angier's Petroleum Emulsion a sovereign remedy. It has given me finer results than any Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil I ever used."

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES

Contains all the properties of the crude oil; yet is so highly refined as to be almost tasteless. Don't confound it with Cod Liver Oil preparations. It is entirely unlike them. In Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Sore Throat, Pneumonia, La Grippe, and their serious after effects, it is positively without a peer. It builds up the system, puts flesh on the wasted frame, and assists nature in effecting a cure.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

AN INTERROGATIVE MEDLEY.

The elevator boy goes up and up
And the elevator boy comes down,
Down and up
And up and down—
In the tallest building in all the town
The elevator boy goes up and down,
But never my way.
"Up?" I say—
He scoots away;
"No—down!"
Down and up, and up and down;
The half-way floor in towers down town
Are ringing with "downs" and "ups."
I press the button with wicket zest
And the elevator boy then does the rest.
When I query, "Down?"
An answering frown,
"No—up!"
Never the way I want to go,
And the elevator boy grins to know
That I give it up
When he says "Down."
The elevator boy scoots up and down
Rattling the crowd when he asks with a frown:
"Which floor?"
No more
No less—
You guess
Which floor!
"How do you number your floors?" I say.
His smile's malicious—"The usual way."
"Is the first floor second or the first floor first?
If the second is first
I want the third;
If the first is first—"
But never a word
Less or more—
"Which floor?"
Oh, elevator boy, going up and up,
Why should you frown when I say down?
Down is up
And up is down
From some points, boy, in this dizzy town—
Why don't you go my way
Some day?
Rising and falling 'twixt earth and sky,
It's awful monotonous wondering why
You never do.
I wish I knew.
It might be music to hear you croak
Some day from the bottom of the draughty well:
"Oh ——"
With gasp and choke—
"You bloke,
It's broke—"
And then I'd use the stairs.

The elderberry bush frequently grows to large proportions in the west. In Los Angeles, Cal., there was a bush the stump of which was 34 inches in diameter.

Precociousness begins to make itself felt. The undergraduate students in the Michigan university are younger a full year or more on the average than they were 20 years ago.

The trip to Alaska is made almost entirely on inland waters. The entire coast of British Columbia is lined with islands, and between these and the mainland is a navigable channel.

A minister in San Diego the other day startled his audience by saying: "I have forgotten my notes and shall have to trust to Providence, but this evening I will come better prepared."

Why not plant trees around your place and along the roads for your enjoyment while living? If you stop to think of it for a moment you must admit that a tree is much handsomer than a tombstone.

Twelve thousand silk worms when newly hatched scarcely weigh one-quarter of an ounce, yet in the course of their life, which lasts only about 35 days, they will consume between 300 and 400 pounds of leaves.

One of the popular superstitions of the negro of ante-bellum days was, that if a honeysuckle had forced its way through the chinks of a cabin and was growing inside, as it often did, it was a sure indication of lives.

When a man is experimenting he often gets expense if nothing else. An artesian well 3,095 feet in depth has been sunk at Ashland, Wis., at a cost of $14,000. After the first 175 feet it passes through brown sandstone.

The longest continuous fibre at the present time is that of silk. A cocoon of a well-fed silk worm will often yield 1,000 yards long, and in one instance one has been produced which contained 1,295 yards without a break.

Men do occasionally repent and then make restitution. Here is an example: A church in lower Austria has just received a legacy of 300 florins. It was bequeathed by a merchant of Vienna to atone for his having broken a window during a lesson in catechism when a boy 11 years old.

The earth travels in its orbit around the sun at an average pace of about 19 miles a second. Owing to the revolution around its own axis a point on the surface of the earth at the equator travels at the rate of 17 miles a minute, and in our latitudes about 11 miles a minute.

A germ of philosophy in a certain little boy took root rather unexpectedly to his parents the other morning. Sarah, the new cook, the first colored person the little chap had ever seen, made her advent in the kitchen. The child sat for some time silently regarding her, and then quietly whispered: "Mamma, does Sarah drink ink?"

Painters are an exacting class and are hard to satisfy. Regarding female models for artists the critics say that the French are under-sized and have bad shoulders; the Germans have not classic features and too broad hips; the Italians are not well rounded; the English are too tall, and the Spaniards are anatomically deficient.

An odd localism, possibly of English provincial origin, is heard occasionally from the lips of old-fashioned people even in New York. It is the word "footy," which seems to be as nearly as possible equivalent to the southern pronunciation of "triflin'" save that it is applied to things rather than to persons. It sounds like a corruption of "futile."

In Gray's harbor, Washington, the pelican is a common sight. Capt. Bergman, of the steamer Typhoon, shot two of the birds the other day, and, in order to find out how much water the pouch of this bird would hold, he cut off the head of one of them and tied a string tightly about the neck. Water from a faucet was allowed to flow in, and when the pouch was filled it contained six gallons.

In some parts of the Colorado desert water boils up from springs which are surrounded by circular hillocks of carbonate of lime from four to eight feet in height, the material of which has been deposited from the flowing fluid. The latter is so highly charged with gas that it is difficult to keep corks in bottles filled with it. It seems queer to find in such a desolate country real soda water fountains supplied by nature.

A tremendous meter was observed on Sunday night at Riggs Station, Ia., passing directly from west to east. It was red, and emitted flashes of bluish fire as it passed. For nearly half a minute after its passage its pathway across the sky could be traced by a luminous line of fire, which seemed to trail behind it. Hunters who came in the next morning from a point east of Riggs, on the Mississippi river, confirm the report as one of the most wonderful sights they ever witnessed.

A very large tree, one of the largest in California, the country of big trees, was discovered near Alington, Snohomish county, a few days ago. It is a cedar and measures 68 feet in circumference. About 75 feet from the ground it forks into four immense branches, and just below the forks is a big knot-hole. Five men climbed into the hole and explored the interior of the tree. It was found to be a mere shell, and about 45 feet down it would afford standing room for 40 men. The tree is still green, and a remarkable feature is said to be that it is barked on the inside and outside alike.

The nursery should not be carpeted. A pretty matting is a far cleaner and more wholesome floor covering. A large rug may appropriately be spread in the center of the room on which the little ones may have their playthings, and tumble over each other without getting hurt. The windows should be pleasantly draped with simple curtains of dotted Swiss, tied back with gay ribbons. Of course there should be convenient shelves for the Mother Goose books, and a low lounge which opens and forms a chest for the putting away of toys when play is over. The walls should fairly speak with pretty pictures, and if possible there should be a nursery swing and hobby horse.

PRISONER IN AN ASYLUM

A Perfectly Sane Man Confined for Five Years.

All Efforts to Get Him Out Did Not Avail.

He Finally Escaped to the Outside World, and His Story Illustrates What Heartless People Exist in Large Cities.

New York, Nov. 9.—(Special)—After five years of undeserved imprisonment Henry J. Langley has escaped from the Worcester (Mass.) lunatic hospital, and is in hiding not many miles from here.

He is in the hands of friends, who have been notified that his wife has a detective on his track. They say if the detectives are not called off they will make things very lively in the neighborhood of West Newton, Mass.

Langley's case is a cause celibre in Massachusetts. For years the authorities have been appealed to in vain in his behalf, and even the press has spoken without result. A pair of duplicate keys has done the work which the courts refused to do, and now at the age of 62 years, broken in spirit if not in body, the unhappy man has found a refuge under the roof of his brother, a well known conductor of the New Jersey Central railroad.

Langley has been freight agent of the Boston & Albany railroad in Boston for 17 years. The older clerks there speak most highly regarding him and scoff at the notion of his insanity.

Save for a nervous affection which caused his head now and then to wag in a curious way he appeared to be a man in the possession of his normal faculties. He is a large, easy-going man, with a florid complexion, iron gray hair and a white mustache. He has none of the irritability or excitability accompanying lunacy. Even when talking of the wrongs which ruined his life, and of his long incarceration in the institution which is Massachusetts' boast, he does not get as angry as one would expect.

Five years ago, according to Langley's story, he was a happy husband and father. He had three bright children, two girls and a boy. He owned the house he lived in—at least he had bought it out of his savings and had it recorded in his wife's name. There was no visible cloud upon his happiness. His business compelled him to rise early, and he prepared his own breakfast, in order to be at his desk in Boston by 7 o'clock, and when he got home at night he usually retired at 10 o'clock.

John Blake, a man worth $75,000, whose mental condition necessitated the appointment of a guardian over his property, had married Mrs. Langley's sister the year before, and on the death of his wife, on invitation of Mrs. Langley, he had come to live in the family of the latter. Langley sometimes suspected that Blake was paying his wife unwarranted attentions, but as both the men were Masons he did not deem it possible that there could be anything seriously wrong. He, however, made a discovery that convinced him that Blake had betrayed his friendship and denounced Blake for his conduct. The next night two doctors called upon him, and on the day following, under a certificate stating that he was suffering from "incipient insanity and incoherent mutterings," he was dragged off to the lunacy hospital and placed behind grated windows and locked doors.

Soon after this his wife came to see him and persuaded him to give up his gold watch, and after that she apparently had little use for him. She has visited him for two minutes at a time about twice a year. It was too much trouble for her to come oftener, though the asylum is only about 30 miles from her home. To all of his pleadings to be released she turned a deaf ear.

The lunacy hospital is not only a retreat for the insane, but, under the laws of Massachusetts, it is a safe place of stowage for inebriates also, the latter being incarcerated as dipsomaniacs on a certificate by two reputable physicians. It is an easy place to get into, but hard to get one out if one's friends will not help him, and he is good for life imprisonment. The doctors, it is alleged, never discharge a patient voluntarily, as it is to their benefit to make a big showing. If a patient's friends do not pay his board it falls on the township or else on the state. There are no free patients.

A year or so ago some of the "dipsos" took an interest in Langley's case and tried to get him released on the ground that he was detained without cause. They even made up a purse of $50 and engaged Lieut.-Gov. Corcoran to take up the case. Mr. Corcoran, like a good, honest lawyer, did about $50 worth of work and then let the matter slide. Then an ex-patient, Mr. Frank E. Hunt, who took a keen personal interest in what he considered a great outrage upon justice, sought relief, first at the hands of Gov. Brackett, and then at those of the state agent of lunacy, Dr. Moulton, of Beacon street. The authorities did nothing at all. Mr. Hunt interviewed the clerks at the Boston & Albany Freight depot in Boston, and those who remembered him spoke most highly of his friend.

At last, when it seemed evident that the law would do nothing for him, Mr. Langley and a bunch of keys got inextricably mixed up. Another purse of $50 had been made up and lay in the pocket of the unhappy man. Then, somehow or other, on the night of October 22, while the Worcester lunacy hospital slept, Mr. Langley found himself outside the gates, and took the midnight train for New York. Who supplied the keys is a mystery. He has been notified by watchful friends that Mr. Blake is having him shadowed, but he proposes to fight for liberty if any further attempt is made to deprive him of it.

The Worcester lunacy hospital is a celebrated institution. The building cost over $1,500,000, and is the pride of the state. It shelters about 900 patients at a time.

FROM LILIUOKALANI'S LAND

Hawaii is Looking for a New Treaty.

An Interesting Talk with Minister Smith, Who is a Native Born American Citizen.

Washington, Nov. 9.—(Special)—The late Minister Carter's successor from Hawaii made an informal call at the state department to-day. He is Dr. Mott Smith, Queen Liliuokalani's minister of finance. Upon learning of Mr. Carter's serious illness some weeks ago the queen sent Dr. Mott Smith to the United States as a special envoy to take up the treaty negotiations now pending. He was authorized in the event of Minister Carter's death to assume the position of minister resident.

Dr. Smith is an American by birth—a native of New York. He is accompanied by C. K. Bishop, one of the wealthiest citizens of Honolulu, who occupies the position of superintendent of education in the Hawaiian government.

Dr. Smith is very emphatic in his denial of the reported ill-health of Queen Liliuokalani. The death of her husband, John Dominus, last September, was something of a blow to her, and she was considerably worn out with the two weeks of public mourning that custom demanded.

She is now about 52 years of age and, according to the doctor, bids fair to outlast the average life of the Kalakaua family, which is about 55 years. King Kalakaua, it will be remembered, was but 54 when he died.

"How about the English influence in the islands and over the queen, that is reported as so dangerous to American interests?"

"You can set that down as all bosh," said the new minister. "The majority of the people are contented and the queen is pursuing a very independent course. She is showing no partiality to the English. There are but two parties in Hawaii and they may be called the ins and outs. The outs are very few in number, but three or four led by a man named Wilcox are trying to foment trouble and are preaching a republican form of government."

"Is there any talk about annexation with the United States?"

"Yes, there is considerable. I was absent from Honolulu for about three years, and on going back found the republican spirit had grown somewhat. It is all with the white element, however. The government, you see, is still in the hands of the natives, the monarchy descending in the line of the Kalakaua family, but the natives are now in the minority, and some day there will come a change.

"The whites are favoring annexation on account of the commercial advantages it would bring. At present our trade with the United States is ruined by the McKinley law, which no longer gives us the advantage we enjoyed in the sugar trade before the law was enacted. By annexation the traders and sugar growers would be entitled to the two cents a pound bounty."

Dr. Smith is here especially to urge a modification of the present treaty. The Hawaiians feel that as long as they were put on an equal footing with the sugar producers of the United States under the old treaty, now that two cents a pound bounty is paid here they are entitled to the same benefit. They are not able to compete with foreign producers, and claim that the United States should continue the spirit of the agreement and give them equal advantages to those they have been enjoying.

The doctor is not very sanguine of getting the next congress to pay a bounty on Hawaiian sugar. The matter was not mentioned in his informal talk with Secretary Blaine to-day, but in a few days he will present his argument for the concession with as much force as possible. He will also make another fight for a Hawaiian cable subsidy in the next congress. The Hawaiian legislature has authorized a subsidy of $25,000 a month to a cable company. This offer still stands and it is desired to have the United States grant a subsidy of $50,000 a month. This, it is calculated, would keep the work in progress.

EUROPEAN RAILROADS.

Their Management More Careful Than in the United States.

The European railroads are more carefully managed than ours. I refer to the precautionary management, and, strange to say, greater care is taken in Italy than in any other country. On every Italian railroad a section house is built at every half mile. The section man resides there and is responsible for the half mile of track under his charge. He is required to carefully inspect it just before every train passes by and is required to signal in front of his section house to all trains the condition of the track. One feels a very delightful sense of security in traveling on these roads. You see the section man standing in front of his door waving a green flag, which signifies that all is well. Other roads in Europe have similar systems of section inspections, but they are not placed with such frequency. Most of the railroads are double-tracked—in fact, virtually all. The road-beds are very firmly laid in cement, with well-packed ballast; the rails are heavy and the engineering is of the very best grade; no cheap work is tolerated; they have no trestles; every gulch is spanned by a solid embankment or an iron bridge; wooden bridges are as wholly unknown as trestles; the tunnels are usually lined, and all the archwork is of the very heaviest masonry.

Asthmatic troubles, pleurisy pains, and inflamed throats are overcome and healed by Dr. Jayne's Expectorant—for fifty years an approved stand-by for all coughs and colds.

OYSTERS IN THE THAMES.

Oysters do not appear to thrive in the Thames. Out of 600,000 laid on flats in the lower reaches of the river in 1887, no fewer than 30 per cent. died. In the following year the same number of oysters were placed on the beds, and the mortality increased to 35 per cent. Matters were still worse in 1889, when 400,000 oysters were laid down to fatten, and nearly half of them died.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Feed the Bull.

That eminent breeder, William Warfield, in his book, "Cattle Breeding," says that "no bull can do heavy service on pasture alone, be it ever so good. There is no better food ration than the best pasturage, and it meets the requirements of animals under ordinary conditions most admirably; but a bull doing full service the year round is not living under ordinary conditions and he needs a more condensed ration, one which will give a greater amount of nutritive food for the small bulk. The pasturage should be supplemented by a liberal allowance—as much as the bull will eat up cleanly in most cases, unless actual expeience shows that he inclines to become too fat on such a ration—of cut oats and chopped hay, and a good feed of wheat bran and corn, shelled and crushed if possible. This is necessary to keep up the lusty state of body which is so essential to sexual vigor. A great many breeders allow their stock bulls to run out with their cows, and especially with their dry cows. The result of this is they get only such food as the cows get. Now, while there is no need of anything more than pasturage, or pasturage and hay and corn fodder for dry cows, a bull cannot do heavy service on such a ration. Every breeder who has pursued such a course has surely noticed that, while the cows keep in excellent condition, the bull is almost always in low flesh, and not infrequently excessively thin.

Sex of the Eggs.

A querist just lately inquired if it be possible to detect the sex of the chicken by the shape or form of an egg. The same question has been argued over and over again, but still there are those in the world who have either forgotten the controversies or have never heard of them, so therefore, perhaps it will be beneficial to briefly revert to the subject. Some authorities have asserted that it is quite possible to foretell the sex of the future chick by the shape of the egg, and though these said authorities have proved their theory correct in some instances, they have been all at sea at other times, and our own opinion is that it is well-nigh impossible to be absolutely correct, and that it is quite a matter of chance, though there may be some attending circumstances that help to confirm the selection of eggs with a view to producing whichever sex is desired, and to these circumstances reference will be made further on.

Mr. Lewis Wright, in his "Illustrated Book of Poultry," says: "It has often been said that the sex of the future chick could be foretold from the egg. The opinion is as old at least as Horace, who affirms (Lib. ii- Sat. 4) that the long eggs 'would produce cocks and are sweeter than the round!' Columella, another old author, says the same. Any sound knowledge of the formation of the egg would present such absurdities from being believed without absolute proof, which has never yet been obtained."

Though certain individual species do produce a preponderance of one sex over another, there will be found very little difference in the formation of the eggs.

It will be generally found that eggs laid early in the season will produce more cockerels than pullets, whilst later on the result will be quite the opposite. Again, if only a few hens are running with a cock the proportion of cockerels will be greater.

The shape of the eggs vary with the age of the hen; for instance, eggs laid by pullets of the first year will be longer and more pointed in shape than those laid by the same bird when two years old, though at the commencement of her second year's laying the eggs will still be a little longer than those laid subsequently. It will therefore be seen that it is quite impossible to foretell the future sex of a chicken from a certain egg as it is to tell the progeny of any animal before it is born. It is one of those mysteries of nature that is beyond man's comprehension and those that assume the self-imposed office of a diviner in such matters have in the end to accept things as they come, for there has never yet been the man able to count his chickens before they were hatched, neither anyone that could tell for dead certainty the future sex of a chicken from the formation of the egg. Twice out of thrice luck may favor the would-be prognosticator; the third time his calculations and prognostications are ruthlessly upset.—London Fanciers Gazette.

Some Sheep Dips.

There are numerous patent dips, various state dips and many other kinds used by owners. The patent commercial dips are objectionable, because they may be too weak, or may contain materials injurious to the wool, or may be too expensive. Some of the best, most effectual and cheapest dips will be here noted with the formula and directions for using:

1. Tobacco, thirty pounds; sulphur, fifteen pounds; oil of tar, three quarts; soap, six pounds; water, 100 gallons.

Steep the tobacco in water sufficient to cover it; decant or pour off the liquid. Repeat the steeping of the tobacco three or four times, decanting the liquid into the dipping tank or another large vessel; then stir in the sulphur. Dissolve the soap in two gallons of hot water; add the tar oil to the hot dissolved soap and stir the mixture thoroughly and rapidly; then add it to the sulphur and tobacco-infusion mixture. Finally add water sufficient to make 100 gallons of water in the entire mixture. Use at 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Add a little water occasionally while using the dip to offset that which evaporates. This tobacco dip may be a little expensive, but it is one of the best and safest.

2. Sulphur, twenty-five pounds; lime, fifteen pounds; water, 100 gallons. This is a very cheap dip; but the lime is said to injure the wool. However, the sulphur lime dip is used quite extensively in scab-infested regions, which indicates that it is considered effectual by those who have the disease to contend with the most frequently and extensively. Use this dip at 101 degrees Fahrenheit.

Catching Time by the Forelock.

In taking a little thought of the morrow it may be well to lay a few plans for next spring's garden. There is no better time than the present for making some of the preliminary preparations, such as manuring, plowing, etc., with the intention to manure and plow again in the spring. There is no greater mistake made by farmers and gardeners, however, than they make in too early planting of many of the staple vegetables. Peas, for example, will mature no earlier if planted in the cold and wet of the first of April than if put in the ground nearer the first of May. One of the authorities on pea culture, Mr. O. S. Bliss, of Vermont, writes: My land was in good condition, but the weather was still cold. I nevertheless planted a row of early peas. Two weeks later I planted another, from the same seed, beside it. The first blossoms appeared on both rows the same day. From that time on the second planting gained upon the first, and gave more and better peas to the end. I have therefore learned that it is better to wait for growing weather than to plant when the growth must of necessity be slow. Again: We have a large bed of asparagus, and as the family are all quite as fond of that as of peas, we do not get in haste about the peas. We this year cut our first asparagus the first week in May. We had peas July 1 and have had an abundance whenever we wanted them. The last mess we ate September 24. We might make another picking, but they are unseasonable; there are an abundance of blossoms and small pods on the vines now, September 27. To obtain this constant succession of green peas of prime quality for three months we made but two plantings of two varieties at each. I can not give the date of our first planting, but I recollect it was after we had sowed our onions that I got the seed peas. The varieties were "First and Best" and "Yorkshire Hero." The second was F. and B. again, and of a variety of which I do not now know the name, but they much resemble the F. and B. except that they are much larger. I obtained the seed several years ago as a variety of the marrowfat, but it is not a true marrowfat.

I am guided in pea growing by my own experience rather than by tradition. I do not practice deep planting, preferring to cover the seed less than two inches to covering it more. I mulch the early crop lightly and the late crop heavily, and set brush for them to climb. For the market gardener who can utilize his entire crop immediately and put his land to some other use the dwarf varieties of peas may be most profitable, but after trying pretty nearly everything of the kind in the family garden, I have discarded them all because I find it impracticable to keep up a succession; I have planted as many as six different sorts in a season without succeeding. Another trouble with the dwarfs for late planting is their greater liability to mildew. Planting in open space where the circulation of air is unimpeded, and thoroughly bushing or stringing the climbers, will generally counteract all tendency in that direction, though in unfavorable seasons even these precautions are not always effective. It is more because the green pea, and more especially the late green pea, is so highly appreciated by people generally than because of any personal fondness for it that we take so much pains to grow it. The green pea has even been known to eclipse all the ordinary dainties of a church festival, so fond of it are the very people who might have it in abundance if they were willing to incur the cost. Hundreds of families never have half a supply; hundreds of others never have any; only here and there one gets an abundance, and frequently they are not fresh from the vines. But the sooner the people discard the use of canned "green peas" the better.

To Prevent Garget.

The Breeder and Stockman gives the following directions for preventing garget: It is an old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and often simple remedies are discarded for their simplicity; as when the leprous king of olden time, who would have given his kingdom, almost, for the cure of his obnoxious disease, yet when told to "go and wash seven times in the waters of the River Jordan," hesitated, doubting either the word of the prophet or the efficacy of the treatment. But he finally overcomes his doubts and his prejudices, and does as he is bidden, and lo and behold! his skin becomes white, soft and clean as a new-born babe.

Garget has been almost a leprous disease amongst many dairies for a generation, and many are the articles recommended for its cure. Why not try a little prevention?

What causes garget? Over-feeding with milk-producing or stimulating foods, causing indigestion or non-assimilation of the food given, clogging the milk secretive organs, as shown by thick or stringy milk, causing inflammation of the udder, with sometimes loss or more quarters. Now, what will prevent this? The feeding of something that will aid digestion and the assimilation of the food given.

Now, I suppose I ought to get a patent on this and not give it away, but I feel that I shall do something for the dairying fraternity, and some may feel grateful that so simple a remedy is at hand. I have not had a case of garget for years, and I attribute it to the daily feeding of salt. In every ration of grain I give salt, and the larger the feed of grain, the larger the feed of salt, and I am of the decided opinion that a cow can not or will not eat grain enough to injure her in any way if a proper quantity of salt be given with it. I am aware there are those who keep salt in boxes or troughs in their pastures, and remark that "their cows have salt by them and eat what they want and what nature requires." Who is to decide what the nature of the case requires, the cow or her owner? When I can concede to my cows' better judgment about their requirements than my own, I'll set the salt box one side and the meal barrel the other and say, "Satisfy your natural appetite." Until then I will measure the grain and salt, either to suit my pocketbook or my own judgment (poor though it be) as to the quantity necessary to supply the demands of nature, or the demands made of her by me, by giving unnatural food measured out to her by me, or my hired man at my instigation, to the end that there shall be a promotion of digestion and assimilation of all food given; that the product of milk and butter shall be uniform in quantity and quality, as it will be if cows are salted every day.

And why not? Why salt our own food to make it palatable and digestible, and neglet the cows, when we are feeding daily unnatural foods? Grass in summer and hay in winter are natural food; all grain food is in a measure unnatural, and fed only to increase the quantity of the product or the quality of the flesh for meat, and when fed should be made digestible and capable of assimilating for the supply of the needs arising from this additional food. Where salt is given daily there is a uniform flow of milk of uniform quality, cream rising and coming to butter by churning just so every time, and no stingy, thick milk in caked udders, no milk fever, no loss of the best cows in the herd, by proper daily feed of good clean salt.

Try it, you who have not, and report results.

Notes for the Farmer.

Never hitch a colt so that it can break loose, even if you have to use a log chain. If he once learns that he can get away when tied he will never be safe afterward.

Disease germs may be taken into the stomach by eating celery that was fertilized with untreated nightsoil. The germs are not in the juices of the plant, but on its surface.

The scarcity of ice during 1890 was the cause of intelligent dairymen learning how to secure the rapid creaming of milk by diluting with cold water. The lesson should not be forgotten.

It is the caseine left in the butter that causes it to sour and spoil. Remove all of the caseine and pure butter will keep sweet and fresh indefinitely, if protected from the air.—Jersey Bulletin.

Bees must be in good condition in the fall to come out all right in the spring. Like other stock, if they winter well and are in good plight in the spring they will make their mark in the summer.

There is a close relation between insect depredators and the health of trees. As a rule insects are scavengers. They are related to disease. Half the battle with insects is to help the tree to battle for itself.

Poultry-houses should face to the south if possible. Be careful about this when you build your houses, for remember that sunshine has a commercial value, and the pens should have a good supply of this, especially in winter.

One of the great reforms needed is that of curing the evil of selling young calves when only a few days old. They are unfit for food, diminish the supply of cows and steers, while the milk in its first stages is ropy and unfit to drink.

In some experiments in feeding the prize steers it was clearly proven that corn is not the cheapest food for producing beef, but that the best results were obtained only when a variety of grain was allowed, with plenty of hay and good pasturage.

Apples that are packed in buckwheat chaff for winter use keep longer, do not lose their flavor, are less inclined to rot and if a few are affected the chaff absorbs the juices, which prevents them from affecting the rest.—Cor. National Stockman.

It is a custom in the east along the seacoast to haul up barrels of brine for the purpose of showering with it the cabbage plants and thus destroying the green cabbage worm. This is good, but salt water should be applied while the worms are young and tender.

It is bad policy in transplanting the trees to vary the conditions too much. If a tree has grown in a thick forest, sheltered from the sun and cold and wind by other trees, it can hardly be depended on to do well in an open place. If such a tree is used great care must be taken to protect it.

The wise man paints his house in the fall or winter. This is preferable to spring or summer. The reason is that the paint has time to harden before the hot sun dries out the oil, causing the paint to crack. Does the house want painting? Ours does, and we shall do it before spring.

Home-grown seeds cannot be depended upon, as farmers have not the proper facilities for raising good seed, and, besides, they will miss all the newer varieties. Every man to his trade, and seedsmen are no exception to the rule, and their trade is growing pure seeds, in which they take pride in excelling.

An exchange says: "A sure sign of swarming is the back and forward movement of the bees on the front of the hive and alighting board, sometimes called 'raking.' After they commence doing that they are almost sure to swarm the same day, and will very seldom, if weather is favorable, wait till the next."

Purchasing fertilizers wherewith to make crops never yet within our knowledge or experience made any farmer rich, but the purchase of feeding stuffs, such as cottonseed meal, linseed meal, and bran, to supplement the fodder crops of the farm and feed stock to make manure, has made and will make thousands rich.—Southern Planter.

The oleander, frequently grown as a house plant, is poisonous to men and cattle, if they swallow the milky juice which runs out when the small branches are broken. Children have been poisoned by eating the flowers, and others by using the wood as skewers for meat while cooking, and its injurious to sleep near it, or with it in the room.

In the opinion of the American Agriculturist the hens that lay white eggs, as a class, lay as many as those that lay eggs of other colors within the year, but not as many in the late fall and winter months, without special care, and in cold weather eggs always bring higher prices, when the profits are much greater. Most white-skinned fowls lay white shelled eggs.

A Central New York farmer bought 25 breeding ewes in March at $3.50 per head, or $87.50 for the flock. The wool, after being creek washed, was sold for $52.50. Twenty-four lambs were raised, and the whole flock was sold in August for $135, leaving a balance of $100 to pay for the five months keeping, and they fed no grain.—Orange County Farmer.

One objection to the matted row system of growing strawberries is the drain on the soil for moisture in a dry season. The matted row system will never produce strawberries equal to those grown in hills. On the hill system several crops can be grown, in the other only about one, while the work of plowing up and replanting counts heavily against the plan.

Cotton-seed oil meal is sometimes used as a fertilizer. It contains about 7 per cent. nitrogen, 3 per cent. phosphoric acid and 2 per cent. potash. Valuing these constituents at 15, 5 and 4 1-2 cents per pound, the relative value for fertilizing purposes of a ton of cotton-seed meal, as compared with the market price of standard fertilizing materials, would be about $26.

If any one is to make money in horticulture he must pay attention to the distribution of his crops over the whole season. Take, for instance, plums. Those who have large orchards of Lombards or Bleeckers, and nothing else, will have the whole crop ripe at once, and at a time when the market is full. The result will be low price or a dead waste.—E. P. Powell.

The abandonment of farm property in this vicinity has been greatest in the last 10 years, owing to low prices of farm products and shiftless farming. I believe the farm values have touched bottom, and although prices have not perhaps increased, there is a better feeling among farmers, leading to improvement of land and buildings.—A. G. Howes, Ashfield, Mass.

DISASTROUS FAILURE.

It is with feelings of regret that we announce the failure of hosts of people troubled with inaction of the kidneys to take efficient means to renew their activity. This failure is most disastrous, for a complete wreck of the organs themselves must eventuate if timely means are not taken to re-establish their secretive function on a basis of activity and regularity. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters renews both, and prevents ultimate and fatal disaster. As it is one of the functions of the kidneys to strain from the blood, in its passage through them, impurities procreative of dropsy, rheumatism and gout, an early impetus is all the more needful to be given to their operations when tardy or ineffectual. The unmedicated stimuli of commerce do not answer this purpose. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, malaria, constipation and billiousness.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The Markets.

London wheat market advanced 9d; corn higher. Weather wet. French country markets generally dearer. Liverpool wheat 1-2d up; less demand. Corn good demand, shade higher.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,311,004 bu, compared with 705,552 bu on the same day last year.

Bradstreet's Report of Exports.

Total exports for 19 weeks (to November 5) equal 77,376,000 bu, against 34,975,000 bu (Montreal included) in 1890, 36,543,000 bu in 1889, 40,366,000 bu in 1888, and 58,883 bu in 1887. Total stocks of wheat available, United States and Canada, afloat for and available in Europe November 1 were 22,200,000 bu larger than on October 1 last, 42,491,000 bu larger than on November 1, 1890, and 24,523,000 bu larger than on November 1, 1889. European and afloat stocks alone on the 1st inst. were 24,704,000 bu larger than on November 1, 1890, and 17,544,000 bu heavier than on November 1, 1889. In the United States and Canada stocks, November 1, were 17,700,000 bu larger than one year ago, and 7,000,000 bu more than two years ago.

Ocean Freights—The ocean freight engagements the past week have been the largest on record in same period, both berth and charter, for grain of all kinds, running into February and March largely, and also into next May, at strong and advancing rates, with little room or tonuntaken this side of February, while demand is still unsupplied for both berth room and tonnage.

The Liverpool "Corn Trade News" cables said: "Anticipate imposition of 10s duty on wheat next week by Russia."

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 605,452 bus. in excess of the corresponding Monday in 1890. The aggregate is 268,638 bus. less than previous Monday.

The export clearances Saturday from four Atlantic ports were 304,581 bus. of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 500,000 bus.

English markets as reported herein are strong and higher for wheat, and a shade higher on corn.

Meteorological.

Toledo had a little rain yesterday and day before, but both days did not aggregate one-fourth of an inch. To-day the weather is a good type of an Indian summer day.

Cairo and Springfield, Ill., have had more than an inch, which is a good help to the wheat crop. Other sections are promised rain to-day.

The effect on the wheat markets would have been adverse except for the strong foreign markets by cable this morning.

The Wheat Movement.

Receipts of wheat at winter wheat points are decreasing somewhat, and at Duluth and Minneapolis the movement since Saturday is 148,633 bu less than that of previous Monday.

The stock of wheat in Toledo decreased last week 308,000 bu, and there is a disposition to move the grain forward to the seaboard before the time arrives for suspending shipments by the Erie canal. Duluth reports very large engagement at 5 1-2 bu lake freight. The outward movement has left only 83,000 bu increase of stock in New York.

The Markets To-day.

The wheat markets on this side ruled strong during the forenoon to-day, and at one time were 1c higher in Chicago and New York on the basis of the December future. The large increase in the visible supply was a weakening feature, and while Liverpool is reported as closing 1-2d higher, Paris and Berlin are quoted as a shade lower, and prices broke off sharply at Chicago with less fluctuation in New York.

The corn markets have also disappointed the bears in the deal, and have been strong and higher. It looks as though the eastern demand would absorb the receipts as long as lake shipments continue.

In New York November wheat closed at a gain of 7-8c, and December at the same. November corn 1 3-4c, and December 1 1-4c higher. November oats 3-8c up.

In Chicago December wheat closed at 3-8c gain. November corn at 7-8c, and November oats at 3-8c gain.

In Toledo, the market for wheat futures has been active, and the sales made increased over late averages. Prices have not gained much. On the basis of December the market commenced at Saturday's closing with frequent and nervous fluctuations, and closed where they did then. On the call December sold at $1.00 3-4, May sold at $1.07 3-8@1.07 1-4, and closed at $1.07 1-2. After the call December sold at $1.00 3-4@1.00 1-8@1.01, and closed at $1.00 3-4. May sold at $1.07@1.08 and closed at $1.07 1-2.

Cash wheat was in fair request, and the price gained 1-2c at the close. No. 2 soft sold at 99 1-2c to 99 3-4c and closed at that. No. 3 soft at 96 1-4c to 97c. No. 4 soft at 91c. Rejected No. 2 at 82c. No. 2 hard at 97c. No. 3 at 91c. No. 1 white at 97c. No. 2 at 95 -12c.

Corn was less active. No. 2 at 56c; No. 3 at 55c; No. 4 at 44. Oats—No. 2, 33; No. 2 white, 34 1-2. Rye was 1-2c to 1c dearer; No. 2 at 94c to 95 1-2c, closing at 95c; No. 3 at 92c to 91c; rejected at 88c.

Clover Seed was active and higher. No sales prime for cash. Held higher. Dec. at $4 70. Jan. at $4 75. No. 2 at $4 20 to $4 50 on the call. Dec. at $4 70 and January at $4 75.

The visible supply of wheat increased last week 2,740,000 bus. Corn decreased 241,000 bus. Oats increased 196,000 bus. in the corresponding week in 1890 wheat increased 1,465,000 bus. Corn decreased 632,000 bus. Oats decreased 172,000 bus.

Seed Market.

The receipts of this commodity at Toledo last week were 2,546 bags, shipments 860 bags. In the corresponding week in 1890 the receipts were 2,919 bags, shipments 430 bags. Since September 1, the receipts have been 32,760 bags, and the shipments 8,710 bags.

The exports from New York for the week ending October 31, were 1,616 bags, and since September 1, 15,298 bags, compared with 17,661 bags in the corresponding period in 1890.

Baltimore Seeds—The market is quiet and steady. Exporters continue to hold off, and that causes our receipts to be stored. Exports for the week ending November 6, 7,839 bu clover, 3,851 bu timothy, 1,786 bu grass, 42,113 bu flax.

In the stock market this morning the events and developments since the close of business on Saturday had rendered the trading element still more bearish, but the short interest has already grown so large that prices after losses ranging from 1-4 to 7-8 generally ,and 1 per cent. in Northern Pacific and Delaware & Hudson, refused to yield farther, and on a large business fractional recoveries were recorded all around. Jersey Central, however, continued weak and declined to 1 10 1-4 against 1 11 1-2 at the opening and 1 12 1-4 on Saturday. In the latter part of the first hour the market again yielded somewhat under the lead of Northern Pacific preferred, which was very weak. In addition to the stocks named St. Paul, Atchison, Lackawanna, Union Pacific, Burlington, Erie and Louisville were the most active. In the hour to noon the bears continued hammering Northern Pacific preferred, forcing its price down from 70 to 68 3-4. Jersey Central declined to 1 10. At noon the market was dull and weak with figures at or near the lowest point. At this writing the feeling is somewhat steadier. The sales amounted to 169,100 shares.

A Judgment Note Causes Trouble.

In common pleas court to-day the motion to set aside the judgment of G. W. Stephens vs. N. J. Baker on a note of $600 came up for hearing. Residence Burned.

The frame residence of Joe Fisher in the village of Arcadia, was nearly destroyed by fire on Saturday evening. All their household goods and every stitch of clothing went up in smoke. By the united efforts of the citizens' bucket brigade, the frame of the building and he adjoining property was saved. The loss will be about $1,000, with $400 insurance. The village has no fire apparatus of any kind.

Plenty of Amusement.

Findlay will have no end to amusements this week, with five engagements at the new Tuner opera house and two at the Davis, the old house, besides the usual number of church entertainments.

WOULD-BE ROBBER

Frustrated by a Policeman's Bullet, but Escapes.

Considerable of a sensation was created in lower town Saturday night in the neighborhood of Superior street near Buckeye street. There is a large grove at this place, and as a lady was passing a man jumped from the woods and knocked out of her hand a small satchel which she was carrying. Patrolman Hinde was near by, on the other side of the street, and at once made for the fellow who promptly fled. The policeman followed and fired at the man but could not stop him. A trail of blood, however, showed that the scoundrel had been hit. The would-be robber was obliged to leave without any booty in order to get away from the officer.

IT WAS A SUNDAY DRUNK

And Two Men Were Dangerously Wounded.

A Bad Man Arrested and Placed in Jail Only to Cut His Way Out and Escape.

Norwalk, O., Nov. 9.—(Special)—Word has just reached here that a serious stabbing affair took place at Jack Satlig's saloon in Monroeville Sunday morning about 1 o'clock, Bill Barber being stabbed by his brother-in-law, Mace Clock.

Clock, a few months ago, married Barber's sister, and since then has been living with her folks, supporting the whole family.

A few days since young Barber, the fellow who was wounded, came home, and the two went on a drunk together.

They were drunk in Satlig's at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

At 1 o'clock a row arose as to whether Clock had to support young Barber as well as the rest of the family.

It resulted in a fight in which Clock used a knife, stabbing Barber in the abdomen and back.

Satlig and Pinkey Smith were also cut while interfering.

Barber was taken home and is in very bad shape. Whether his wounds prove fatal or not depends on circumstances.

Clock was jailed this morning. When he was given his breakfast he had the floor of the jail torn up ready to go.

Notwithstanding this he, by promising to be a good boy, was allowed to stay in the cell.

Five minutes after the intelligent officer had gone he escaped.

A PEERESS NAMED SMITH.

I see that much comment is being made in the American as well as in the English press over the fact that the widow of the late W. H. Smith is to be made a peeress in her own right, and it is asserted that it is for the first time that such an honor has been conferred on any one bearing the somewhat widely distributed patronymic of Smith. This is true in a measure, but although there have been as yet no Smiths in the house of lords, there have been both Smythes and Smithsons, the latter being the family name of the present line of the dukes of Northumberland, while the former used to be the patronymic of Lord Carrington's family. The first Lord Carrington, however, was discontented with his name, which he held to be too plebian for retention in the house of lords, and accordingly secured the permission of the crown to change it to that of Carrington. Jones—a name which in England at least is almost as common as that of Smith—is represented in the upper house by the Herberts of Cherbury and the Ranelaughs, while Robinson is the family name of the marquis of Ripon, who obtained his marquisate as a reward for his services at Washington in connection with the Alabama convention.—New York Recorder.

KILLED AT A FIRE.

Two Firemen Meet Death While on Duty.

Four Others Injured, But Not so Seriously But That They Will Recover—Loss $30,000.

Cincinnati, Nov. 9.—Two firemen were killed and four badly injured at 9:30 o'clock this morning by the breaking of a ladder.

An employe named Myers was in the cellar at the time. His escape was cut off, but he was finally rescued by the firemen, who carried him to a place of safety. He was badly burned about the head and upper part of the body.

The two firemen who were killed are Wm. Brocklage and Ed. Anderson, of the Gifts company.

The injured are Capt. Hurley of the Two's, Firemen Beebe, John Conway and Jerry Doherty, all of the Gifts.

It is thought all the injured will recover. The loss is about $30,000, insurance, $15,000.

HENZLER GETS OFF.

Through Error in the Police Court on the Jury Question.

The case of Edward Henzler against the State, an action on error from the police court was heard and disposed of in Judge Harmon's court to-day.

Henzler was arrested some time ago on the charge of violating the Sunday closing law. He was convicted, and the case was appealed to common pleas court.

The judgment of the police court was reversed on the ground that the court erred in ordering a special venire to fill the jury instead of following the provisions of the ordinance requiring the chief of ppolice to summons talesmen.
